GREEK SHIP IS AFIRE AT OGDEN POINT

Freighter Puts Into Victoria
To Battle Week-Old Blaze
In Bunkers

MEN PREPARING TO REMOVE TOP-GOAL

Grey wisps of smoke lazily drifting out of the ventilators of the Greek freighter Nereus, lying alongside Ogden Point Pier yesterday morning, were the only indications of a week-old fire which was burning at the bottom of the ship's bunkers and slowly eating its way upwards.

The Nereus reached Ogden Point at daybreak yesterday. The fire was detected when the freighter was about 600 miles from Victoria on her way to Yokohama with a cargo of lumber and logs. Attempts made to smother the fire proved unsuccessful. While this was going on, the engine-room crew had a disagreeable time breathing smoke and gas.

OFFICIALS MEET SHIP
When the Nereus arrived here, Capt. Elias Fonoris, master of the ship, was met by T. C. Workman, of London Salvage Corporation; E. H. King, Lloyd's representative in Victoria; and H. C. Barnett, of the British corporation. As the vessel docked, W. G. Jordan, superintendent of Pacific Salvage Company, with a number of men, started cutting through the steel brackets of the coal pockets in order to permit the Empire Stevedoring Company to begin discharging whatever portion of approximately 1,000 tons of Vancouver Island fuel is salvageable aboard.

HERE SOME DAYS
The Nereus will be here several days at least. The extent of the damage, if any, will not be known until the top coal has been removed and the fire extinguished.

The Greek ship is one of the largest freighters to visit the British Columbia coast. She is 472 feet in length, has a beam of fifty-nine feet, and of 6,894 tons registry. She is a former German ship, ex-Bosnia, ex-Elia, and is operated and owned by E. E. Hadjilias & Company, London, and is registered at Cyra, Greece. She was built at Bremen in 1913.

MINING ACTIVE IN THE YUKON

Revival of Industry Produces
Renewed Optimism—No
Jobless in Country

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (AP)—C. A. Jeckell, comptroller of the Yukon Territory, arrived here today with a statement that prospects in the territory, the only large section of the nation without unemployment, are brighter than they have been for many years.

Mr. Jeckell, here for conferences with Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Resources, said it was many years since mining in the Yukon had been active.

MORE TEST DRILLING
New drills operated by gasoline engines, Mr. Jeckell said, have made practicable far more extensive test drilling than was carried out previously, resulting in discovery of areas rich in gold where old-time prospectors thought there was none.

Prices of 44 and 45 cents an ounce for silver have made it profitable for owners of three new mines at Gales Hill to ship concentrates to a smelter in Idaho, the comptroller explained. In addition a 250-ton mill is being operated at full capacity.

The mines are the richest yet discovered, said Mr. Jeckell.

AIRPORTS IMPROVED
Airports at Dawson, White Horse and Mayo have been improved, and new fields opened at Selkirk, Carcross, Carmacks and McQuesten.

Improvement in the mining industry has produced renewed optimism in the country, said Mr. Jeckell. No one is without work and there are no labor troubles.

"Zero Hour" for Storming Madrid Thought Imminent

Franco's Motorized Columns Bring New Offensive
Almost Within Artillery Range of Spanish
Capital—Closing in From All Quarters—
Some Gains Obtained at Heavy Cost

BURGOS, Spain, Oct. 15 (AP)—Motorized columns of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgent troops rumbled almost within shelling distance of Madrid tonight, pounding ahead in a tremendous new offensive against the capital.

"Zero hour" for the storming of the actual fortifications of Madrid was believed imminent.

Three columns of Fascist warriors, under General Jose Varela, fought their way to a point within twenty-five miles southwest of Madrid. They hoisted the red and yellow insurgent flag at the new field headquarters near the village of Aldea del Fresno, only nine miles from the strategic centre of Navalcarnero.

IN SWEEPING ATTACK
Steel-helmeted regulars under Varela's personal command, drove forward thirteen miles in a sweeping attack ranging between Santa Cruz del Retamar and Chapineria, nine miles east of their objective.

The Seville insurgent radio station said the Fascist column marched east from San Martin de Valdeiglesias occupied the town of Chapineria and pressed on towards Madrid.

The broadcast also said Madrid Government militiamen fled from Ceberreros, twelve miles north of San Martin.

IS TO REDUCE
'FINE OLD RUM'

Liquor Board Announces
Impending Cuts on West Indies Product

British Columbia's Liquor Control Board announced an impending reduction of forty cents a quart in rum prices, yesterday, as a result of fresh arrangements to import rum directly from the British West Indies. The new prices will go into effect in a few days' time.

The board is about to import rum in bulk from the British West Indies, in place of securing it through Great Britain, as before. The saving in cost is to be passed along to the public, after the rum is bottled in the board's warehouses in British Columbia—One saving—will be eliminated by the new plan.

At the end of this month the liquor vendors' stores will cut their prices on rum by fifty cents an imperial quart, forty cents a reported quart, and twenty-three cents per pint. Three listings of "fine old rum, 36 per cent over proof" and three of just "fine old rum" were, meanwhile, to the sales list of the board by order-in-council.

Prime Minister
On Way to London

PARIS, Oct. 15 (CP-Havas)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King left tonight for London after a five-day stay in the French capital.

"I am extremely satisfied with the negotiations conducted in Paris during my brief stay. I consider the result will contribute to the maintenance and strengthening of the ties of friendship between the two countries," he told Havas.

TWO RESCUED AS FISH BOAT SINKS IN FOG

Vancouver Men Taken Off
Fish Packer Just in Time by Seattle-Bound Vessel

CRAFT DAMAGED
NEAR CAPE LAZO

Two brothers were rescued from the cold waters of the Straits of Georgia as their fish packing boat Irma J. was sinking beneath them near Cape Lazo, due to the keen sight of Capt. Ralph Grosvold, of the Seattle vessel Blue Fox, bound to the Puget Sound port from the Aleutian Islands.

R. A. and D. R. Cole, Vancouver men, were returning to port from the fishing grounds with the hold of the Irma J. filled with fish. It was Wednesday morning, and a heavy mist hung over the water. Suddenly the boat struck something with a crash. Whether it was a log or rock could not be discerned, as the boat cleared itself.

FISH PACKER SINKS
Soon it was discovered that the collision had been of sufficient force to start a leak. The pumps would not handle the water, and gradually it gained in the engine-room, until the Diesel engines were awash. In the heavy mist the direction of land could not be discerned. Slowly at first, and then more rapidly, the fifty-five-ton packer sank.

The two men, who were aboard, so one of the brothers improvised one on the winch by igniting gasoline and oil in a tin.

SEES PINKISH HAZE
The Blue Fox, commanded by Captain Grosvold, was southbound, and through the mist the captain discerned a pinkish haze as the flare blazed up. Putting the wheel over, he ran towards it and reached the Irma J. just in time to remove the Cole brothers from the packer before the boat went down in 100 fathoms, about five miles from Cape Lazo.

The Blue Fox carried the brothers to Deep Bay, where they were landed. Provincial police were notified, and late yesterday the plight of the Cole brothers and the loss of the fish packer was communicated to Vancouver.

Mail Vessel
Sinks After Hitting Rock

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Oct. 15 (AP)—The mail boat Chacon, of Ketchikan, carrying fourteen persons and mail, struck a submerged rock in Zimovia Strait and sank last night with no loss of life and slight loss of mail, said a dispatch from Wrangell to the Ketchikan Chronicle tonight.

The fifty-three-ton vessel, operating out of Ketchikan to Wrangell and the west coast of Prince of Wales Island, hit the rock, Capt. Philip Falconer ordered nine passengers and four crew members to the lifeboats, the dispatch said. Later they were taken to Wrangell.

SYMPATHY STRIKE ENDS
MANCHESTER, Oct. 15 (CP-Havas)—Two thousand longshoremen returned to work today, ending a three-day strike called in sympathy with a small group of their fellow-workers who were discharged when they refused to unload a cargo which considered dangerous to their health.

PLANNED DEBATE IN SCRIP
Edmonton's relief grant for August, $35,000, was to be exchanged for scrip to that value and $30,000 extra scrip donated. The city agreed to circulate the $65,000 for two years with holders obligated to affix a one-cent stamp each week.

On August 13, Watson filed a statement of claim seeking a court ruling the relief scrip agreement was authorized by the City Council Tuesday. The notice indicated it would be heard here October 23.

It was Watson who upset by court action an agreement between Edmonton and the Provincial Government under which the city undertook to take scrip in lieu of cash relief money.

Ridges With All Trails Obliterated—Obliged to Dig for Horses' Feed

EDMONTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Harrowing experiences of three men in a sixteen-day battle against Arctic blizzards and drifted snow as they trekked over treacherous ridges of the Eastern Rockies 300 miles north of Hudson Hope, B.C., after heavy snowfall had threatened to trap them for the winter in Muskwa River Valley, were described here today by J. A. Newberry, seventy-seven-year-old big game hunter of Huntington, W.V., when he passed through Edmonton on his homeward journey.

Clamped in the shelter of a bush after hunting along the Muskwa, fifty miles farther north than any other party, Mr. Newberry said, "The greatest danger at this time was loss of horses, which would have meant disaster, he added.

Forced to abandon regular pack trails and travel along dangerous 9,000-foot ridges to reach Bikanil River Pass, giving access to the feed for the hobbled horses, the men set out riding horses through snow up to the stirrups. Mr. Newberry said, "The greatest danger at this time was loss of horses, which would have meant disaster, he added.

Pattullo Bridge Is Name Chosen For Fraser Span

AT the suggestion of the New Westminster City Council, British Columbia's new $4,000,000 toll bridge over the Fraser River will be known officially as the "Pattullo Bridge," the Council decided yesterday, pressing that honor upon the Premier. The bridge will be completed in about a year's time, it was learned. A letter, expressing the thanks of New Westminster citizens for construction of the bridge was received by the Government, and will be suitably acknowledged.

FIGURES RISE BY BIG JUMP

Death Toll of Luzon Typhoon
Increased by Several Hundred

MANILA, Oct. 15 (AP)—An overnight jump of 138 in the fatality reports brought the death toll of Northern Luzon's week-end typhoon to 546 tonight, and tabulations showed 1,045 missing, an increase of more than 300 over last night's figures.

The additional reports came as communications were re-established with provinces that had been isolated since the storm whirled over the area north of here last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

ANOTHER BREWING
(Pan-American Airways reports indicated another storm was stirring in the vicinity. Company officials announced an additional twenty-four-hour postponement of the China Clipper's flight from Guam to Manila, because of "severe weather conditions" unfavorable to flying.

The China Clipper, carrying news writers from San Francisco to Manila, left Guam early this morning, but turned back when her captain decided he could not circumvent two typhoons in the region.

Relief workers reported the threat of disease had subsided in typhoon-stricken Cabaatuan, provincial capital 100 miles north of Manila. The storm struck that city of 15,000 with its full force.

PRAYING FOR RELIEF
Word from the Cabaatuan region said hungry mobs plodded through mud and debris-littered streets, chanting prayers for relief. Asserted threats to loot rice warehouses caused army officials to send constabulary detachments to some of the stricken areas. Relief agencies worked as fast as possible to get food supplies to the refugees.

Moko Maru was making her way toward Lingayen Gulf on the Eastern Luzon Coast, after having sent a distress call for an off-coast position in the China Sea. Half a dozen ships started to her rescue, but her skipper later asked only two of them to stand by.

Risks His Arm in Dental Operation

SARASOTA, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—Joe, big hippopotamus left behind in Winter quarters while a circus went on tour this year, snored peacefully today for the first time in nearly two weeks because his keeper, Elmer Hodges, decided to take a chance on losing an arm.

A toothache had Joe in bad tonight, and he refused to sleep. Hodges decided something had to be done. He thrust his arm into Joe's yawning mouth, grasped the ailing tooth firmly and yanked it out by the roots.

Freeing from the cage, Langley was pursued to his automobile, seventy-five yards away, where the bear struck him down. He was clawed terribly.

Started by the attack on Langley, James Virtue, sixty-eight, of Fort Fairfield, his helper, grabbed a shovel and struck the animal. With increased rage, the bear turned on Virtue. He died as did Langley, his body torn and mangled.

The shots that killed "Pete" were fired by Joseph Willette, a farmer neighbor of Langley's.

CHINESE POLICE
INFORMER SLAIN

Man Believed to Have Been Cornered in Blind Alley and Then Shot Down

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (AP)—A Chinese police informer, pierced by three bullets, was found dying in a blind-alley in Vancouver's Chinatown tonight. Police identified the man as Quong Kong, who had been acting for them as an informer in gambling-house investigations.

The man died shortly after being taken to hospital and before he was able to make any statement to authorities.

Police said they believed two men had cornered the Chinese in the blind street and pumped the three bullets into his body.

King Leopold's Speech Puts Fate of Locarno Agreement in Doubt

FRANCE FORESEES END OF MUTUAL AID PACT

Belgian Government Is Expected to Adhere to League Obligations

(By the Associated Press)
Europe's peace structure shook today under repercussions of the Belgian King Leopold's speech indicating his country would return to her pre-war neutrality status.

The consensus of interpretations in European capitals was that King Leopold's speech to his Cabinet presaged Belgian withdrawal from the mutual assistance pact with France, and from the Locarno Treaty for European security.

Fearing this was the correct interpretation, the French Foreign Office hastily drafted a note asking specific explanations from the Belgian Government.

LEAGUE OBLIGATIONS
The Belgian Ambassador to London was reported last night to have assured Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that King Leopold referred only to Locarno conferences, and that Belgium would adhere to the League obligations.

The French note asked answers to the four questions asked by diplomats throughout Europe.

1. Would Belgium withdraw from her mutual assistance pact with France?
2. Would Belgium withdraw from the Locarno Treaty?
3. Would Belgium participate in future Locarno discussions?
4. Would Belgium abide by her League of Nations obligations?

ANSWERS HOLD FATE
Upon clear answers to these questions, European observers felt hung the fate of the complex European treaty set-up designed to guarantee the continent against another world war.

Daring Aviatrix Completes Flight To New Zealand

Miss Jean Batten Given Uproarious Welcome at Auckland After Record-Breaking Solo Trip From England—Disregarded Warnings Against Making Hop Over Tasman Sea

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Oct. 16 (AP)—Jean Batten, daring New Zealand aviatrix, conquered the perilous Tasman Sea today to complete an 1,100-mile hop from Australia and end a record-breaking solo flight from England to New Zealand.

She reached Auckland at 5:07 p.m. local time and was given an uproarious welcome by her fellow New Zealanders.

The twenty-six-year-old flyer disregarded warnings of air officials and veteran flyers who urged her not to make the final hop across the Tasman Sea from Sydney.

Before she left Sydney she said, "If I go down in the sea, no one must fly out to look for me."

CONFIDENT AT START
"I have chosen to make this flight and I am confident I can make it, but I don't wish to ignore the lives of others and cause trouble and expense to the country."

Flights over the Tasman Sea in single motorized planes are opposed by the Australian Federal Aviation Board, but it lacks legal power to prevent such trips.

Miss Batten, the first woman to fly alone across the South Atlantic, broke the solo record from England to Australia last week, and then was held in Australia by bad weather.

ORDER PERMITS
MINE OPENING

About 600 Men to Be Employed at Copper Mountain
And Allby Properties

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (AP)—Mr. Justice Robertson, in Supreme Court here today, ordered the liquidation of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Company stayed so as to allow the company to resume operations at Copper Mountain and Allby B.C.

Reopening of these properties will result in the employment of about 600 men, C. H. Locke, counsel for the liquidators, said in stressing the public importance of the application.

The company was incorporated in 1901 and carried on until 1935, when it closed its plant at Anyok. Reopening of Copper Mountain and Allby is due to better prices available for copper. It is said.

Locke said the liquidators have more than $400,000 on hand after realizing $4,500,000 for the shareholders.

MOSLEMS AND HINDUS FIGHT

Thirteen Killed and 140 Are Wounded in Religious Disorders in Bombay

BOMBAY, Oct. 15 (CP-Havas)—Religious disorders between Hindus and Moslems threatened to spread tonight after thirteen had been killed in the Byculla district of this city.

Three British police inspectors and five constables were among the 140 wounded during the fighting, which broke out when construction of a Hindu temple was started near the site of a Moslem mosque.

Hundreds of enraged zealots threw themselves into the fighting. Eight Hindus and five Moslems were killed in the first clash, but it was feared further deaths would result if the racial warfare spread to other districts.

POLICE AID CALLED
Police reinforcements were sent to the scene as soon as the fighting began. A ban against carrying arms was imposed on the district by the authorities, who reportedly were prepared to call in troops should the fighting assume serious proportions.

Both Moslem and Hindu leaders had feared trouble as soon as work was started on the Hindu temple. They conferred for several days without reaching any agreement and construction was started yesterday.

Crowds of excited Hindus and Moslems soon gathered. Several of the more dramatic attacks started to throw stones and the fight was on.

LOSE THEIR RUM FOR BEING TARDY

Twenty British Sailors Disciplined
For Delay in Attention
To Duty

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Twenty members of the crew of H.M.S. Guardian, a net-layer, were deprived of their daily ration of rum for three months today because they were tardy about falling in at daylight on a chilly morning recently.

They also were denied their usual three hours of leisure daily for the same period.

The Admiralty stated the "indefinite constancy of reluctance and a short delay in falling in the normal routine of the ship was not at all period."

The sailors complained they had had insufficient rest.

Musical Arts Has Auspicious Start For Season's Work

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor Extends Good Wishes to Society, on Occasion of Delightful Opening Programme at Empress Hotel

UNDER the most auspicious circumstances the Victoria Musical Art Society last evening, at the Empress Hotel, opened its 1936-37 season. Promise of a most successful year was given in the presence of an unusually big audience, and in the calibre of the artists selected for the programme. Much enthusiasm was shown, and the executive looks forward confidently to an interesting winter.

The interest shown by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber, who were present for the first time in their role of honorary patrons of the society, stimulated the spirit of optimism. Introduced by the new president, Mrs. Alton Peckles, His Honor during the evening gave an encouraging little talk, in which he outlined the worthy aspirations of the organization and spoke generous public support.

THE PROGRAMME

The programme opened with a short statement from the president, Mrs. Peckles, of the aims and objects of the society, and a brief outline of the proposed programme for the season. She thanked the Rotary Club, which postponed its meeting last night, Mrs. J. O. Cameron, convenor of the evening's concert, and the several artists.

The first musical item was the magnificent Beethoven Sonata No. 3, A Major, Op. 69, for violin and piano, played by Mary Bucklin Hammond, cellist, and Helen Ockenden, pianist.

At the end of the programme these two musicians were again heard together, when the cellist, always a great favorite with Victoria audiences, and now welcomed back as a leading member of the artist group, was given quite an ovation for her fine performance of Bach's "Adagio" from "Toccata in C Major," and Senaillé's "Allegro Spiritoso." Her tone, firm, round and resonant, is very beautiful, and her interpretive work was the hallmark of fine artistry. Miss Ockenden, too, is a highly accomplished young musician, with a fine command of keyboard technique and intelligent artistry.

OTHER ITEMS

Out of the usual, and very much appreciated, were the two musical readings given by Madame Sanderson-Mongin, with Eileen Dumbleton at the piano. A stylized, easy and experienced in manner, with expressive voice, graceful gestures and intuitive sense of rhythm, Madame Sanderson made a charming interpretation of Harcourt's "Si j'étais le vent," which she explained first in English and followed by a delicate bit of tragic-humor, in English, "A Broken Heart."

Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Johns were delightful as soloists and duetists. It was in the latter role they appeared last evening, their voices and spirit of interpretation harmonizing happily in Hoffman's "I Feel the Angel Spirit," and in a duet, between Nedda and Silvio, in Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci." These revealed experienced artistry, the latter particularly showing the individual quality of the voices. As popular as either of their earlier numbers was Handel's "Lascia chi piano," which they added as an encore. This little-heard duet arrangement is delightful and suited the voices admirably. Mrs. C. W. Warn showed her customary aptness as accompanist.

VICTORIA MAN IS APPOINTED

James A. Gibson Named to Montreal Office of League of Nations Society

JAMES A. GIBSON

Former resident of Victoria, James A. Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gibson, 631 Trutch Street, has been named secretary of the League of Nations Society in Canada office in Montreal. The office was opened yesterday for the purpose of carrying out the society's new national peace action programme.

Mr. Gibson was graduated from the University of British Columbia and attended Oxford University as a Rhodes scholar. He has travelled extensively in Europe in the interests of international student organizations, and recently completed a lecture tour for the society across Western Canada.

Robert Inch, national secretary of the society, who announced the appointment, said Montreal Peace Action Council and Peace Action Centre, including an international affairs literature service in the branch office, would be established.

NEUTRALITY STAND ENDANGERS TREATIES

The Locarno pact, signed eleven years ago today, Friday, has been held by European statesmen to be the keystone of collective security. The signatories were Germany, Italy, France, Great Britain and Belgium. The present Locarno Treaty became a "dead letter" in March, 1936, when Hitler re-armed the demilitarized Rhineland. In a German note sent to Britain in reply to a British questionnaire yesterday, however, Hitler was said to have declared his Government willing to sit in on further Locarno conferences providing the return of Italian participation were defined.

AUSTRIAN SITUATION

The reason for this reservation, it was said, might lie in the Austrian situation, where Nazi and Fascist elements are both as strong as they are opposed to each other.

If the Belgians should answer that they were abrogating their mutual assistance pact with France, Soviet Russia would be brought in the foreground of the complex set-up.

She is bound by a unilateral military assistance pact to France. Her relations with Germany of late have not been of the best.

If Germany should attack Russia under the existing treaty set-up, France would be bound to come to her aid. If Germany then should attempt to strike at France, too, Belgium would be pledged to come to France's aid and thus become an ally of Russia against Germany.

Behind the existing treaties involving Belgium directly, there is the question of her intentions as to her League of Nations obligations.

As the situation stands now, Belgium has withdrawn and Italy did not participate in the assembly just ended because the question of Ethiopian membership was not definitely settled.

If Belgium should answer that she does not intend to continue active League obligations that would split the three-two balance of the Locarno powers against the League of Nations, of which Russia is a member.

These major League members would then be split this way:

Active: Russia, France, Great Britain; non-participants: Germany, Italy and Belgium.

The question of Belgium's participation in future Locarno conferences was interpreted by European observers as more of a sounding to determine the trend of her contemplated concrete action on the Locarno and French Treaties.

France and Britain have indicated they would enter into future Locarno discussions.

Italy and Germany have said, in effect, "maybe."

The Belgian decision again would swing the three-two balance.

TO STAND ALONE

BRUSSELS, Oct. 15 (AP).—Official circles tonight interpreted the "neutrality" speech of King Leopold as meaning Belgium would stand alone in the defence of her frontiers and would abrogate all pacts pledging her to go to the military aid of other nations.

Informed circles expressed belief the king's speech reflected the Cabinet meant Parliament would be urged to:

1. Withdraw from the French Mutual Assistance Pact of 1920.

2. Withdraw from the Locarno Pact. (The other signatories are Germany, Italy, Britain and France.)

The diplomatic consensus was such actions would return Belgium to her pre-war neutrality position, with added military defence for the country's German frontier.

Belgium must not work for a "victorious war," the king counselled the Cabinet, but rather only to prevent her fields again being inundated with foreign armies.

PARTY OF HUNTERS NEAR DISASTER

Hudson Hope trail, the party was faced with falling rains and crusted snow drifts that threaten to founder their horses.

Struggling up the last mile to Sikanli Pass, the hunters, nearly exhausted, were faced with a narrow, snow-swept ridge, 500 feet above any trail. Attempting to cross the ridge several pack horses broke through the crusted drifts and slid forty yards down the mountain before they were rescued with ropes. Mr. Newberry related.

Enthusiasm undiminished after his experience, Mr. Newberry, said to be the "dean of big game hunters" in the North, is making plans for another trip next Fall, this time to Telegraph Creek, "loaded for bear."

Lean and strong, despite his seventy-seven years, Mr. Newberry is a cable manufacturer in his West Virginia home town.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (P).—The number of unemployed single men in the Vancouver city jail and Oakalla prison was increased to more than 200 tonight with the arrest of forty-three men on charges of obstructing police officers.

The men invited arrest, police said, collecting on a downtown street corner today with paper flowers for sale, and awaiting the arrival of officers to take them to jail, where they were met by cheers and shouts of those already locked up.

After appearing before Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson in police court they were transferred to Oakalla, where fifty-six of their companions were taken last night after being remanded to Monday at a special police court session.

BY-LAW DRAFT IS APPROVED

Oak Bay Council to Call Public Hearing of Zoning Amendment Regulation

Oak Bay Municipal Council gave its approval to a draft of the zoning amendment by-law yesterday, and authorized Reeve R. R. Taylor to set the date of a public hearing as soon as the municipal solicitor had scrutinized the by-law.

The by-law divides the residential area into districts, increases the minimum requirement for floor space from 500 to 800 feet, and prohibits the building of small semi-detached apartment houses in some districts.

An encouraging financial report was presented to the council by Councillor Richard Angus. To the end of September the tax receipts in all branches amounted to approximately $6,000 more than last year, while expenditures for the nine months were well within the estimate for 75 per cent of the year.

Councillor Angus explained that if costs are maintained at last year's level, the year's estimate of 85 per cent collections would be reached. Prepayment of taxes was well ahead of last year.

To insure the permanency of the view from the top of King George Terrace, on Gonzales Hill, the council ordered three lots, including a small point, be set aside as a park area. Several councillors expressed hope that further lots would be taken off the market for park purposes. It is expected a lookout will be built on the Gonzales property in the future.

Authorization was given to commence the digging of a sewer on King George Terrace.

WORK ON CREEK

In answer to questions, the council will advise Saanich Municipal Council that Oak Bay has already cleared Bowker Creek and improved its outlet.

While expressing favor with a request for municipal tennis courts at Windsor Park, councillors left the matter to next year's council.

An offer by P. W. Pringle of $140 for a lot on Guernsey Street, assessed at $130, was accepted. For two lots on Cadboro Bay Road, assessed at $550, L. U. Conyers & Co. offered $400. The council refused the offer, conforming with an earlier decision not to accept under-assessment offers.

A grant of $10 will be made to the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, and members of the council accepted an invitation to visit the Red Cross Workshop, on a date to be set by the reeve.

Insurgent planes swung low over advancing troops baking the retreating Government militiamen with deadly effect.

On the northern front, General Emilio Mola's Fascists pushed rapidly towards the capital, plodding ahead over the bleak mountain terrain.

A column advancing from Suñeza towards Guadalajara, thirty-five miles from Madrid, made heavy territorial gains, but suffered severe losses from the sniping and ambushes of Government guerrilla bands stubbornly falling back.

A fierce commitment tonight said a "state of complete disorganization" prevailed in Madrid.

THIRTEENS PUNISHMENT Generalissimo Franco himself threatened to "punish" nations which receive Bank of Spain gold from the Madrid Government, declaring he would refuse to sign economic agreements with them.

Franco said the constant shipments of gold abroad from Madrid constituted a "grave attack on the country's economy" and expressed the belief that the last gold from the Bank of Spain would be seized by pillagers before the insurgents enter the capital.

three of the men taken into custody yesterday also appeared before Magistrate Matheson today and were remanded to October 22.

Twelve men, whose applications for free transportation to their homes were accepted, left the city last night, and police report twenty-three more will leave tonight. An additional nineteen applications have been approved and these men will probably leave for their homes tomorrow.

B.C. Forest Camps Now Closing After Successful Season

Several Hundred Youths Received Training in Lumber Operations, and Numbers Passed Into Private Industry—May Extend Plan

BRITISH Columbia forest training camps closed yesterday, at Cowichan Lake, Aleza Lake and Green Timbers, after a second successful season in which several hundred young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five years were given a practical introduction into the lumber industry. Many of them will secure permanent employment as a result of their training, forestry officials said.

Operated along non-political lines, the use of trail crews and rangers by the Forest Branch of the Department of Lands, the forest camp able work was done in clearing fire system was enlarged this year, with trails, improving existing trails and making new ones, at several points on Vancouver Island and in Mainland forest districts.

On the Island the year's work included the preparation of Elk Falls as a scenic attraction, with construction of steps, an observation platform and other facilities. In the interior of the Island, around Cowichan and Nitinat Lakes, existing trails were enlarged and made permanent.

While in camp the men received instruction on all phases of forest management, as well as an incidental grounding in looking after themselves while in the woods. Some passed directly into private industry and others have the expectation of jobs within the near future. Forestry officials are following up each individual to assist in placements, where possible.

Next year, while definite announcement cannot yet be obtained, the forest camp training system may be much extended, with Federal assistance. Talk of putting from 1,200 to 2,000 youths through the camps has been discussed, without decision as yet.

URGENT ACTION IN NEW DEAL

Bruce A. McKelvie and H. Despard Twigg Appeal for Island Province

Continued rank injustice and discrimination against Vancouver Island by governments for over seventy years, the vicious political patronage system and the necessity for a new deal, were related by Bruce A. McKelvie during a representative meeting of Oak Bay residents in St. Mary's Hall last evening, under auspices of Vancouver Island Provincial Association. H. Despard Twigg dealt with the many advantages of creating the Island a separate province. A vote of thanks on behalf of those present was moved by Harry J. Davis, president.

Quoting the words of Sir James Douglas in 1864 that Vancouver Island and the Mainland needed separate fiscal policies if the Island was to progress, McKelvie stated that the Island had been forced to live upon capital assets with disastrous results. Quoting from a forestry department report of 1930, he said he did not believe accessible stands of fir would last twenty years at the present rate of cutting. In spite of many promises, no appreciable part of the revenue, raised by depletion of assets, had been used for replacing them with others, he declared.

Even though the climate and scenery of the Island were unsurpassed, wealthy persons were kept away by exorbitant income taxes and confiscatory death duties, he asserted. No attempt had been made to open up the West Coast, Forbidden Plateau and other outstanding beauty spots with roads, and not a pick had been struck on Strathcona Park for twenty-two years, he stated.

PATRONAGE AND WASTE
Mr. McKelvie explained how $100,000,000 of British Columbia's debt represented patronage and waste. Because huge campaign funds were raised, those who provided the money called the tune, to the detriment of those upon the Island. Six British Columbia land schemes and the province $34,028,000. In Hazelton district a $250,000 bridge was erected when one costing $40,000 would have sufficed. On an Island of 1,500,000 acres, assessed at $415,000, a 625-mile road cost $631,000, he said in illustrating waste. He closed by quoting figures to prove Vancouver Island raised plenty of revenue to become a self-governing province, far better off financially than it was at the present time with Mainland control.

Emphatically stating Vancouver Island could not remain at the present rate unless wrongs were redressed, Mr. Twigg quoted Section Three of the British North America Act to explain that the Federal Government was empowered from time to time to increase, diminish or alter any province with consent of the Legislature of that province. He said all Vancouver Island asked was that British Columbia be diminished by territory of the Island.

There was no doubt Vancouver Island raised sufficient revenue to show steady progress and create better living conditions for all, he asserted. If the Island were self-governing, it would be commercially, economically and politically better for British Columbia and the Dominion of Canada. There would be no present need for another government if British Columbia had been governed efficiently, he said.

URGENT ACTION

Envisaging a happy, contented and enriched population with the Island a separate province, Mr. Twigg pointed out hope of those conditions would fade from sight unless something was done within a very short time. It was unfortunate that the Government did not consider the welfare and happiness of the people of paramount importance. Two many ministers asked "who" instead of "why".

Within the province, Government buildings were valued at about $24,000,000, of which only $3,400,000 stood on the Island, Victoria, the Capital of British Columbia, was forced to continue using an ancient courthouse, condemned by many grand juries, yet in other small centres the following courthouses were built: Prince Rupert, $541,000; Kamloops, $1,100,000; Vernon, $213,000; Williams Lake, $31,000; and Kelso, $35,000. Mr. Twigg related, also remarking that every thinking person realized Vancouver Island had been discriminated against in many matters.

Mr. Twigg told how committees had been appointed from Campbell River to Oak Bay to discuss matters affecting the Island into a separate province. He said in the future the Island would be a new paper. The Island Advocate, would be mailed next month. The publication intended to throw light on every angle of the Island's pressing need for just treatment.

NOT PERMITTED TO ENTER RUSSIA

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (P).—Angus MacInnis, Socialist M.P. for Vancouver, who was refused permission to enter Russia, according to word received here today.

They left Vancouver in July for a visit to Europe. When permission was refused to enter Russia, MacInnis made further representations to Moscow without reply, the report said.

He was later told by a Russian consul in Sweden that their visas would be waiting for them at Helsinki, Finland, but on arrival there he was informed there were no visas.

MacInnis then telephoned Moscow and received a direct refusal, the report said, with no reasons stated.

CRAFT TALKS FEATURE MEETING OF AUTHORS AT PRESIDENT'S HOME

An interesting programme was given at the regular monthly meeting of the Victoria and Islands Branch of the Canadian Authors' Association, held last night at the home of the president, Miss M. Eugenie Perry, Wilmut Place.

Mrs. Margaret Steer, formerly of the Edmonton branch, gave a craft talk on "Some Aspects of Prose Writing." Mrs. Florin McLaren spoke on literary material to be found in Alaska and the Yukon, and Mrs. Myrtle Lane reported on the drama course held at the Summer School of Fine Arts at Banff.

Three new members were welcomed, Miss Sara Jean McKay, Mrs. Robin E. Breach, and Mrs. Steer. Following the short business session refreshments were served.

OSGOOD CASE NEARING END

Manslaughter Trial to Be In Hands of Jury Some-time Today

The trial of Herbert N. Osgood, charged with manslaughter following the death of Eugene Ross on September 5, as a result of an automobile accident on the Esquimalt Road, is nearing a conclusion. Chief Justice Morrison will this morning charge the jury, after which the case will go to the jury. Court is to resume at 10:30 this morning.

M. B. Jackson, K.C., addressed the jury, followed by the address of Mr. Davey.

Mr. Jackson said that the Crown was concerned in producing all the facts. There had been some reference to drinking and it would be for the jury to decide on that point. He said that Osgood was familiar with the road and knew there was a dangerous curve, and if the brakes were not applied he was guilty of recklessness.

DUE TO BLOW-OUT

Mr. Davey advised the jury that there must be gross negligence proved in order to convict the accused. The witness Lyster testified that the accused was driving in a careful manner, and Stringer also said that when he left the accused he was sober.

Mr. Davey took the position that the accident was the result of a blow-out of the right rear tire of the car. The witness Buckingham had seen the car pass him on the street and gave no more attention to it, so that it could be accepted that it was not being driven in a reckless manner. Lyster testified that the car was being driven in a careful manner.

There was no proof that the marks on the pavement were made by this car and even if they were the fact that the right side marking was so much heavier than the other indicated that the brakes were not applied but there was a slack tire following the puncture of the tube by a nail, that had been shown in court. This created a slack tire which eventually became a flat one, and it accounted for the widening of the marking.

CAME AS SURPRISE

The reported discovery of a nail in the right-hand rear tire came as a surprise to the Crown. James MacRae, expert witness for the Crown in the matter of automobile operation, had at the preliminary hearing, testified to there being no nail found in the tire. Yesterday, Mr. Davey showed the witness a nail which he said, protruded through the tire.

Mr. Rutherford said that this would not produce a flat tire. It would be a slow leak. Mr. Davey expressed the opinion that this would cause a flattening of the tire. At the forenoon sitting, the evidence of Mr. Rutherford, of the Thornburn Road Garage, who had had twenty-two years' experience in dealing with automobiles, and who had taken a mechanical course earlier in life, was introduced by the Crown to testify concerning a blow-out. His evidence was that there was no indication that a blow-out had occurred.

ADVANCED THEORY

He showed the jury and the court the two rear tires which he had found flat, when called by the Esquimalt police in the case. The tires were intact and the torn condition of the tires was explained by the witness.

Mr. Rutherford said that outside pressure possibly exposed the tube, which was accordingly burst easily, but there was nothing to indicate a blow-out. He was of the opinion that the tires were forced away from the rim of the wheel in some manner.

The witness offered the opinion that the tires were evidently in safe condition for driving. The brakes he found in good condition. After twenty-two years' experience in driving, he would not venture an opinion as to the speed at which the automobile was going when the accident occurred.

To Mr. Davey witness reiterated his evidence given at the preliminary hearing, that the damage to the right rear wheel was not due to its running flat.

WAS RULED OUT

In the production of expert evidence, the trial judge was not agreeable to accepting evidence of the Provincial police, who had made a test of the distance in which a car could be stopped when proceeding along the section of street where the accident occurred, on the ground that the cars were not of the same weight, nor were the conditions similar in other ways. The court also upheld the objection.

INTERNATIONAL CURRENCY

The "new kind of gold standard" announced this week by United States Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau as an arrangement between Great Britain, France and America, is an event of great international importance. Firstly, the agreement in itself is designed to stabilize the currencies of the three countries for international trade within reasonable range of fluctuation. In other words, the fluctuation is to be that which takes place in the normal transaction of international commerce and not that violent gyrations resulting from other causes such as speculation, flight of funds and dumping of foreign credits and debits. Secondly, any other nation is welcome to enter into the general arrangement upon the same terms as the three leaders. This opens the door to all lesser financial powers to enter an agreement which will aid stabilization of their own currencies. Thirdly, it is a basis upon which something in the nature of an international currency, that dream of economic reformers, can be built. When all nations were on the gold standard the world had more nearly achieved that Utopian financial arrangement than ever before, for at no other time did the same stability of currencies exist. After Great Britain abandoned gold in 1931, forced to that act of desperation by an international bank run upon London, instability of currencies became more and more apparent and fluctuations increased in range and violence as one after another country dropped gold backing. When the so-called European gold bloc remained, strenuous efforts were made to stabilize through the use of special funds for that purpose, but international agreement was practically impossible so long as the gold bloc remained. When France abandoned gold, forcing other members of the bloc to follow suit, the last obstacle in the path of international action towards stability was removed.

The announcement has been received with considerable enthusiasm. A new era of international financial co-operation is foreseen. Mr. Neville Chamberlain, as Chancellor of the Exchequer, made a statement in the House of Commons to the effect that the arrangement was purely technical and not as the result of any change in British policy. This is quite true and to be expected, but the fact remains that once the arrangement has been proven satisfactory, with increased trade the proof of satisfaction, the natural trend should be toward more permanent steps for currency stability.

Another result of the arrangement has been the ending, for the time being at least, of any possibility of any sharp increase in the price of gold above the present approximate rate of $35 an ounce. At the same time the possibility of a reduction to the old $20 rate is more remote than ever. All governments are too heavily burdened to increase their debt position in relation to the gold reserves by reducing the dollars-an-ounce value of those reserves.

JUBILEE OF THE LINTYPE

The history of the lintype machine, which revolutionized printing and which was probably the greatest mechanical aid ever vouchsafed the newspaper press, dates back to the early seventies. The machine, however, never attained complete success until the Mergenthaler invention of 1886, by which the first newspaper was printed from bars of type produced on a lintype machine. The present year is the jubilee of the invention of this revolution in printing, the most momentous since the invention of separate type by Gutenberg in the fifteenth century.

The lintype is now very widely used and is by no means confined to newspaper offices. It has been an invention of constant development, from the original machine with one magazine setting one size of type, to eight magazines and varied sizes of type. The machine can be adapted to many uses. An illustration of this is in the fact that there are today thirty-six lintype machines in the Bank of England printing department, and none of these are used for regular printing purposes. They are used for divided warrants and other documents which the bank distributes to its clients. There is all the information desired on these, including the amount to the name of the payee.

The lintype has speeded up printing as nothing ever has done before its invention or since. It is an invention which, no doubt, has exercised a profound influence on human affairs, perhaps a far greater influence than many inventions which have attained greater notoriety. The extent to which what the lintype has meant is ignored, would appear to lie in the fact that nothing is being done to celebrate the jubilee of its invention.

ATLANTIC TRAVEL

Travel on the Atlantic this year between January 1 and August 28 showed considerable increases over the immediately preceding years. Eastbound the number of first and cabin-class passengers was 11,155 more than during the same period last year, or an advance of 20.85 per cent. The number of tourist passengers showed a rise of 12.32 per cent, and the number of third-class passengers registered an increase of 23.62 per cent. Westbound traffic of all classes of passengers showed a rise of 9.52 per cent, and this does not include the return movement of passengers to the United States, which would be reflected in the figures for the Autumn.

It is certain that the figures for next year will show a substantial increase over those quoted above, as the Coronation in London is likely to prove a great drawing card. Most of the wealthy tourists from this continent will go to England next year. It is significant that while Atlantic travel is increasing, the accommodation for it has been growing less. Since 1932, British tonnage, to the extent of 480,256 tons gross, has been withdrawn, and against this decrease only the Queen Mary, of 81,000 tons gross, has been commissioned. Compared with 1933 there is a reduction of 6.57 per cent in the number of berths belonging to the Atlantic Conference lines. It is obvious that if travel continues as at present there will be a new boom in shipbuilding.

NEAREST AND FARTHEST STARS

Sir James Jeans seems to have inherited from Sir Robert Ball the ability to make astronomy interesting, even to the unimagination. In a recent lecture he told of how the farthest of the stars visible to the unaided eye is 3,000 light years away, and that people are seeing them now, not as they are at the moment but as they were before the building of Rome and before the siege of Troy took place. He gives some idea of the immensity of the unknown universe by saying that the distance of these stars is as nothing in comparison with that of the farthest stars of the Milky Way. These, he says, are probably at distances of 130,000 light years, "and the light by which we see them started on its journey through space long before man had become civilized at all."

Sir James alludes also to the smallest of the stars yet discovered. Its radius is only half that of the earth, but it contains nearly one million times as much substance as this planet. Sir James estimates that its average density must be about 35,000 times that of water, and that a piece of it the size of a pin-head would break a man's back.

LIVING ON THE STARS

In New Zealand, one person in every fifteen is a pensioner of the State. Many included in this percentage have dependents, so that the number living on the bounty of the State is even larger. In addition, there are 51,049 unemployed and their dependents. About half of these give some return for State relief in labor. There should be figures available in every country showing the number of all classes who look to the State for their subsistence, and it should be shown what, if anything, is given in return. The spread of Socialism, and the manner in which so much of it results in no returns in service, is one of the problems of the age. It is quite obvious that there is a declining number of persons who are living by their private efforts, which would indicate, in part at least, the wave of laziness that is spreading over the earth. The problem is that of those who work for those who don't, and how human effort to give something for something may be better apportioned.

In Germany hereafter, blood tests are to be taken by the police in all cases of traffic accidents where it is suspected that alcohol is responsible. Blood will be taken from a tiny puncture of an earlobe or finger-tip of the person in question and preserved in a glass capillary tube. It will then be examined at the chief laboratory of the State police hospital. Thus, sobriety or intoxication will be established, and no doubt where there is punishment it will be made to fit the circumstances.

President Roosevelt, of the United States, says: "I doubt if there exists any problem, political or economic, which would not melt before the fire of spiritual awakening." How many political or economic protagonists are doing anything whatever to kindle such a fire? Most of their theories are of the earth, earthly, and therefore purely material.

THE INN BY THE ROAD

Never was the sky so deep a hue
But that the sun came breaking through;
There never was a night so dark
But wakened to the singing lark;
Nor was there ever a lane so long
It had no turn for the weary throng;
No heart so sad that some time after
There came no sound of lifting laughter;
And death's not the end—neath the cold,
Tis the Inn by the Road on our way to God.

Autumn skylines are beautiful. Evergreen fir stand silhouetted against the rolling clouds, their bold flat boughs as horizontal strokes on a Japanese canvas. Nearby, the arbutus thrusts feathery twigs upright into the air in finely-pencilled lines, with which the falling leaves make magic tracery. Chestnut trees stand in welling pools of golden glory; while acacias blow green and gold by turns on the evening breeze. And what an anthem the leaves now play as they rejoin the sleeping earth in rest!

"Frou-frou-frou" comes the boy from the corner store, kicking the leaves into a lively dance. Bless you, he won't lift his feet for thirty days, while this magic lasts. "Clit-clat," say the leaves, as his dog scampers along beside him. "Shu-u" and "shu-u," it is now the measured tread of a greybeard, waiting for dark before he, too, will kick the leaves just like he did when he was a boy. Only now he is self-conscious, and must not be found at it.

Here are the oaks, crinkly dry and chattering, with their acorns but a memory. They will drop all of their leaves at once some night, when the wind blows briskly through the forest and darts around the tree-bodies with swirling gusts and eddies. Aloft, their boughs loom bleak and gaunt, bereft of their closest friends.

Then it is the plane tree, bestowing its yellow-green cloak one leaf at a time upon the boulevard. Sparsely, it will contribute the outer and smaller leaves, at first, leaving six or eight to a stem as an inner jacket against the frost. In the end, they will all come down, but the parent tree parts lingeringly with its aging offspring.

Now we reach the holly, a doubled and redoubled green by very contrast, with its alert and prickly foliage, and its cheery red berries. This is a touch of Christmas yet to come. Perhaps Christmas in a far-off land, where Summer sets the seasons out of gear, and holly is the sole reminder of some woodland in Devon or in Limerick.

"Frou-frou-frou," the boy returned to the store. "Clit-clat," his dog upon his heels. "Shu-u" and "shu-u," another wayfarer, rattling up the gossamer leaves until the whole avenue seems brighter with the sound.

And now comes the wind, skittering and skating the leaves along the street. It rustles them into the gutter. Harries them out again, and off for another chase. It comes into hope, and then demolishes the heaps with capricious glee. Yes, the wind is a merry fellow. He wants life and action for his pains. He wants a different picture every minute, and every second of every minute—and he has his way.

Not yet is the anthem quite complete. But now it comes, the rain. Hear the trebles and the basses of a different choir—the rain splashing on the pavement, water tapping on the leaves, chuckling and gurgling into gutters. Ah, now we've got a symphony, the rain and the wind—and the leaves all together.

It is magic music, this anthem of the Autumn. Hear how the rain and wind combine to drive the leaves along at furious pace, dashing them weedy up against the trunks of trees, shaking them into waiting gaps in picket-fences, rounding them out again to fly in horizontal flight a full black lung.

Now there is a lull. The wind seems to pause and listen. The rain falls gently down, caressing the leaves as if to reassure them of a kinder measure. The foliage sinks into the soil. Merces softly with the ground. Returns in different form and varied shape, to the earth that gave it birth.

The rain pauses. Stops, and seems to listen. To the wind takes up the tale. Playfully, it gathers the fresh group of leaves. Gossamer them along the ground. Coaxes them over the curbing across the road, on to the grassy field beyond. Lays them down, at home. The wind returns for another, and another loud, distributing them far out of sight to their parent trees.

Night has fallen, and the moon comes up. First spread their branches flat and black against the sky. Arbutus line the slope, with pennetted thrust skyward in a rounded sweep. Acacias twinkle, their watered leaves like sapphires and like emeralds. The sleeping earth's at rest.

PLAN TO ATTEND SPECIAL SERVICE

Army and Navy Veterans Unit Will Go to Christ Church Cathedral on November 8

Armistice Memorial Service at Christ Church Cathedral on November 8, at 3 p.m., will be attended by members of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, Victoria Unit, No. 12, and their wives. It was decided at a general meeting last night. There will be a procession of colors.

President J. S. Scarfe, Thomas Jones, Dominion director, and Major T. R. Wheeldon, first provincial vice-president, will represent the unit at the Provincial Command meeting in Vancouver tomorrow.

Six new members were initiated into the unit. A special smoking concert will be held tomorrow night in the club rotunda. W. S. Emerson, pianist, will be one of the feature entertainers. Aubrey Jones is chairman of the programme.

The unit was entertained by the Pride of Victoria Lodge, R.A.O. Buffaloes, at a concert and card party last Wednesday.

ANGELS
Our beautiful girls have taken wings and clad them in robes of white. They have dropped the lipstick and shed the curls.

When preened for the heavenly flight. Those who know most about this heaven. And measure its streets with a span. Have shown us hosts of the shaved and shriven.

But never a whiskered man. They say that the hierarchs are mostly men. But it seems when they get up there. They fly straight out of the robing room, Or fresh from the barber's chair.

Yet most of the angels I've known on earth. Were wrinkled and old and worn. Wrenched with the pains and pangs of birth. With beauty tattered and torn.

Ministering angels, indeed, were they. As they tended their little flock. And guided their steps in work or play. And mended the shirts and socks.

For unto such angels as these were given. Immortal souls to guide. To lead their steps in the ways of heaven. And the joy of its Sabbath were.

And some of the men were hairy and rough. Reeking with smoke and mould. Their clothes were rough and their voices gruff. Though they came from a heart of gold.

They were the comforters, pioneers. Who fought the upending fight. As they marched through the wrath of the warring years. In the battle for truth and right.

So, when you paint me an angel next. Paint Christ with the bearded face. Or hairy Paul by the prison wall. In the robes of the world's disgrace.

And paint me the face of that mother of mine. Soft as a brooding dove. No wings, but the dear old eyes that shine. With the light of an angel love.

How District Got Name

Famous Flin Flon mining district north of the 54th parallel on the Manitoba-Saskatchewan border received its name from the hero of a dime novel, Josiah Flint-abbly Flonablin. In the story JONAS was financed by P. T. Barnum and descended by submarine into the depths of a Rocky Mountain lake. There he found mountains of gold. . . . A local hardware merchant vowed never to go hunting again in his new automobile. During the long week-end he loaded his market and departed for the fastnesses of the island with visions of venison for dinner. While driving over a rough field he started to run over what he thought was a large tuft of grass. It turned out to be a stump. The front of his machine changed shape considerably. An aged patient in an island hospital was not to be fooled when a nurse gave him some pills to bring on sleep. He swallowed them bravely and stayed awake all night to find out what effect they would have. Almost as bad as the nurse who woke a patient with difficulty to give him a sleeping potion. . . . A bicyclist, who claims he receives more than his fair share of punctures, told us that motorists who smash their windshields, or windows, in accidents should be compelled to sweep the broken glass off the street. We agree. . . .

It is remarkable, however, to find many provisions of this code superior to the law under which we are governed today; although the above writer in doubt thinks we are much higher in the scale than nomads and slaves, in which case surely our laws ought to be superior.

The ancient law forbade interest. Under English law, up to the sixteenth or seventeenth century, interest was forbidden, and when the law was changed at that time, English clergymen strongly denounced the innovation and predicted sorrow and grief for the nation. We are now realizing that interest is a burden greater than individuals and communities can bear. Homes and businesses have been sacrificed and men have been driven to crime because they gambled, but through the steady drain of interest payments. Our legislators know now that while interest payments may be kept up for some years to come, the principal sums borrowed by our Federal and Provincial Governments and our municipalities will never be paid. British statesmen have been inquiring whether they can find any guidance in Israel's law, and have been assured of relief through an application of its principles.

Then under the Israel law, each family held as its inalienable right acres of land. We thought of our communities as rural and city; now the advent of the automobile brings a third view, described by President Roosevelt as rural-urban. In his book, "Looking Forward," he says: "We know from figures of a century ago that 25 per cent of the population lived on farms and 25 per cent in cities. Today the figures are exactly reversed. A generation ago there was much talk of a back-to-the-farm movement. It is my thought that the slogan of the future will be 'back to the city' and 'back to the rural.' RADIO FANS VIEW NEW MODELS SHOWN BY LOCAL DEALERS

Radio Week Reaches Climax Today and Tomorrow—New High Standard of Performance and Beauty Is Found in 1937 Lines Now Displayed in Victoria Stores

RADIO Week in Victoria is now at its peak and the local radio dealers are more than satisfied with the interest taken by the public in the displays featuring the new 1937 models of short wave and standard wave sets. Radio Week has been sponsored by the Victoria stores with the aim of letting the public see and compare the new season's presentation which has just arrived.

Typical of the quality of displays found in local stores is that made by Kendall Radio Laboratories, 1311 Douglas Street. Majestic Northern Electric, Sparion, Philco and Marconi are those shown here. In speaking of the sets displayed, Mr. Kendall laid emphasis on the many outstanding developments, and in particular to the exclusive features found in the Sparion line.

Known as the "Symphonic Extension" this feature gives full tonal range in the following manner: At the broadcasting station it is necessary to cut down on the power as a singer reaches the crescendo or a full orchestra increases the tempo as toward the finale. This is essential to prevent overloading the station and in this way much of the full tonal range is lost to the receiving public. The Sparion feature automatically recaptures this lost power and gives the listener the full beauty of the music or song. The Kendall Radio Laboratories also feature the patented process available here which results in the elimination of street car noises and alike outside interference.

"MAGIC TONE" RADIO
H. D. Mainwaring & Company, 722 Port Street, carry the General Electric "Magic Tone" radio, having a complete showing of the line. These beautiful sets have, together with bringing vastly improved standard-wave reception, put a new meaning to short-wave programmes. Much of the success of short-wave reception lies, according to the radio specialists in charge here, in the correct installation of the antenna. In this connection Canadian General Electric had made up an antenna especially adapted for use with the "Magic Tone" General Electric radios. Of proper design and with exactly the right length and weight of wire, this antenna is achieving remarkable results.

In presenting Stewart-Warner, Majestic and Sparion radios, the firm of Wilcox, Limited, 648 Esplanade Street, states that they have concentrated on these models after testing performance, tonal quality and construction of each model, and are confident that they are offering the public the finest in modern receiving sets.

Mr. Wilcox waxed enthusiastic in speaking of the models he displays. "The Stewart-Warner," he said, "with its copper photo-tone speaker, the duo circuit ferrodyn chassis and many other ideal features, is recognized as an exceptional radio with the new electron beam amplifier, which gives volume without distortion."

"The Majestic has found something in tuning dials, they call it 'kicker-view' stand up and tune dial. The chassis disc eliminates cabinet boom and the thirty microfarad con-

MISSING FROM FERRY VESSEL

Portland Woman Disappears
From Princess Marguerite
Bound for Seattle

SEATTLE, Oct. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Gertrude Rogers, thirty-eight, of Portland, disappeared from the Canadian Pacific steamship Princess Marguerite while the vessel was off Port Townsend yesterday on its way here from Victoria, B.C., company officials reported today.

Mrs. Rogers was traveling with her mother, Mrs. Helen Windross, who notified ship's officers when she discovered her daughter missing. A thorough search of the ship failed to locate her, officials said.

Grief-stricken and near collapse, Mrs. Windross was taken to the home of another daughter, Mrs. Sherman Ebbsinghouse, wife of a Seattle attorney, on the ship's arrival. She remained there today. Frank Rogers, husband of the missing woman, was on the way here. Mrs. Rogers had not been ill and seemed in good spirits, company officials were informed.

ON ROUND TRIP

Her brother-in-law, Ebbsinghouse, said later today that she and her mother were on a one-day round trip yesterday to Victoria, B.C. She had been ill over a long period of time, he said, but before leaving yesterday was in good spirits. Her husband, he said, is a marine ship-builder.

Officials of the B.C. Coast Service, Canadian Pacific Steamships, had no further information concerning the missing woman last evening.

FREE GLASSES FOR CHILDREN

Optometric Extension Circle
To Be Formed to Assist
Indigent in City

A free clinic to provide proper and satisfactory visual care for indigent Victoria school children is to be established by Optometric Extension Group, the school board learned Wednesday evening at a meeting in the City Hall. Trustee Kenneth Ferguson pointed out opticians interested in the clinic intended to supply glasses free to children whose parents were in reduced circumstances.

Headquarters of the service to be known as Optometric Extension Clinic will be in the office of a member to be selected. All optometrists serving therein will be familiar with the technique of examination and analysis sponsored by the American Optical Association Extension programme.

All patients eligible for clinic care are to be referred by the school board to the clinic office, where provision will be made to place each patient under care of an optometrist for examination. A full report of the case history, findings and analysis will be made at a study group meeting, where disposition of the case will be decided upon. Expenses in connection with each case will be the responsibility of the examiner concerned.

EXPLAINS CLINIC

In a letter to the school board, A. A. Blyth explained the idea of a clinic was born of a desire to be of service to school children, and patients would not in any way be used for the purpose of experimentation. He stated the Optometric Extension

Study Group was established for the advancement of optometric knowledge for the rendering of a better service to the public, and for the raising of the ethical and professional status of those engaged in the profession.

School trustees decided to thank the group for its generous offer, and promised to co-operate to the fullest extent.

Caused by Starting

AUTOMOTIVE ENGINEERS state that approximately three-quarters of engine wear can occur in the starting period. To cut down this starting wear, you need a fast-flowing oil, one that starts the moment you step on the starter.

With a slow-flowing oil, when you start, over 100 closely fitting parts of your engine rub together "dry" of lubrication.

New Fast-Flowing Oil Checks Starting Wear

Shell engineers have produced a new oil that's fast-flowing for starting, yet tough so it holds its body under high heat and resists breaking down into sludge and carbon.

R. W. SHANNON IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Former Legislative Counsel in Saskatchewan Passes Here—
Funeral Today

Robert W. Shannon, K.C., a resident of Victoria for the past five years, and former legislative counsel to the Saskatchewan Government, died late Wednesday, following an operation at the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mr. Shannon was born in Ireland on November 3, 1858, the son of the late James S. and Letitia Leathem Shannon. He was a pioneer of the Yukon Territory and practiced law there for some years.

Five years ago he retired as legislative counsel to the Saskatchewan Provincial Government and came here to reside. He was a member of the Union Club, the Overseas League, the Canadian Club and the General Alumni Association of Queen's University, where he graduated in law.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Emily F. Scarra, of Kingston, Ont., residing at the family home, 1503 Rockland Avenue, and two sons, Dr. J. R. Shannon, New York City, and Alfred Shannon, Kingston. He was predeceased by his brother, General Lewis Shannon, who passed away recently in London, Ont., and whose funeral he attended.

Funeral services will be conducted today at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel at 7:30 p.m. Dean Quinlan officiating after which the remains will be forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

New Officers Named in Dominion Board of W.A.

Donations Voted to Prince Rupert and Columbia Coast Missions—Mrs. Sexton and Mrs. Schofield Hostesses at Tea at Bishop's Close

Two new officers were elected to the executive of the Dominion Board of the W.A. to the Church of England in Canada at yesterday's session of the annual meeting at the Memorial Hall. These are Mrs. Chamberlain, vice-president for Central Canada, and Mrs. Sparling as secretary of Church Boys' League.

The executive, otherwise, is as follows: President, Mrs. R. E. Wodehouse, Ottawa; vice-president for Western Canada, Miss Phepoe, Vancouver; recording secretary, Miss I. C. Morgan, Hamilton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. B. Reid, Ottawa; treasurer, Mrs. D. B. Donaldson, Toronto; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. P. J. Brimer, Victoria; candidates' secretary, Mrs. P. R. Soanes, Toronto; educational secretary, Miss Helen Cattanchi, Toronto; girls' secretary, Mrs. E. G. Hewson, Toronto; Junior secretary, Mrs. C. C. Abbott, Kingston; editor of Living Message, Miss Grace Evans, Toronto; secretary-treasurer, Living Message, Mrs. G. H. Playle, Toronto; official, Miss Millicent Wright, Vancouver.

MORNING SESSION
At the morning session, prayers were read by Miss Phepoe and a telegram of greeting was received from Bishop and Mrs. Burd in California, expressing appreciation of the interest and help given to the Diocese of Caledonia.

A standing tribute was paid to a Dominion life member, Miss Fannie Jones, who has just passed away. The report of the finance department was given by the treasurer, Mrs. D. B. Donaldson, who reported forty-six bursary-holders, all of whose reports were most satisfactory. The pension fund was supplying benefits to ten retired missionaries, it was reported.

Donations were voted to the Prince Rupert Coast Mission, part of which was the collection taken at the public missionary meeting on Wednesday evening. The budget for 1937 was explained, with the list of appeals, which will be adjusted to the total of $10,000. These will be published in the November issue of The Living Message.

Dean Quainton gave a devotional address, taking as the basis of his teaching "A few hindrances to true missionary work," closing with an earnest appeal to all to do their share in the evangelization of Canadian life.

Among the luncheon guests were Bishop Sexton, Rev. Alan Greene, Rev. W. H. Gale, Rev. Vernon Venable and Rev. T. A. L. Connolly, M.D.

Clubs and Societies

Centennial W.M.S.

Rev. S. S. Peat and Mrs. Peat held "open house" on Tuesday evening for Centennial W.M.S. Auxiliary and friends, for the annual thanksgiving meeting. The gathering was a large one, and the devotionals were participated in by the group, using an unusually beautiful service of worship sent out by the Dominion Board. Roll call and minutes were followed by the reports of the treasurer and the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Peat. Reports of letters of sympathy and flowers sent to bereaved and afflicted members. Mrs. Henderson spoke appreciatively of the new study book, "Men and Women of Far Horizons." Mrs. Leitch sang a delightful solo. Mrs. Jeffrey played the accompaniment. Rev. Andrew D. Reid, the pastor, spoke on the subject of missions and of its value in bringing about a better understanding among the nations. He reminded the members that a short time ago the Dominion Board of the W.M.S. had contributed $15,000 to help the general board. Dr. Reid was warmly thanked by the president, Mrs. Farquhar. Mrs. Rogers led in prayer and Rev. S. S. Peat gave the benediction. Mrs. Peat and a committee served tea.

Native Daughters

The monthly meeting of the Native Daughters of British Columbia, Post No. 3, was held on Wednesday evening in the Knights of Pythias Hall. There was a good attendance of members, and the chief factor, Miss Jean Lorimer, presided. Reports were given by the different committees. Miss Ethel Neilson reported on the Historical Society's annual meeting, which she attended. Mrs. A. Roach gave an account of the last meeting of the Local Council of Women. Miss Ethel Neilson gave an interesting account of the meeting held at Miss Spencer's of the Society for Preservation of Native Plants of British Columbia. Various items of business and welfare work were dealt with. The attendance prize was won by Mrs. Campbell. The next meeting of the society will be a social evening on October 28. The committee includes Miss Lilian Simelhurst, Mrs. R. Cruikshanks, Mrs. A. Kinsman and Miss Jean Lorimer. The next business meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 11, in the Knights of Pythias Hall.

Auxiliary Meets

The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital T-B Pavilion, Vernon Villa met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. I. G. Truett, Rupert Street. In the absence of the president, Miss K. Mackay, Mrs. Truett was in the chair. Plans were made for a membership tea to be held at the home of Mrs. K. T. Hughes, 1259 Richardson Street, on October 28 from 3 to 6 o'clock. Miss Emily O'Brien will be the convener. It was decided to hold the auxiliary meetings in the homes of the members, the next to be at Mrs. O'Brien's home, 1124 Woodstock Avenue, on November 10 at 3 p.m.

Many Books Donated To Aged Women's Home

A large collection of books was received yesterday afternoon when the committee of the Aged Women's Home held the annual book shower and tea. An unusually large number of visitors were welcomed during the afternoon. Mrs. William Grant, the honorary president; Mrs. W. L. Clay, the president; and Mrs. P. W. Vincent receiving the guests, assisted by Mrs. G. A. Lister and Mrs. A. D. Whittier.

The staff, under the direction of Miss Robb assisted the tea committee and also showed the visitors round the home. The dining-room and sitting-rooms were gay with autumn flowers, the tea tables arranged with daisies, Michaelmas daisies and chrysanthemums.

One of the interesting "sights" of the home was the jam cupboard in which a splendid array of preserved fruits has been stored away for winter use. Much of the fruit has been given to the home by kind friends, and the tempting rows of jellies, jams, bottled fruits and vegetables made a great appeal to the housewives who saw them.

Many of the aged ladies attended the party and enjoyed tea with their old and new friends. Miss E. Heimken, Mrs. G. Walker, Mrs. B. Brown and Mrs. E. Hedde were responsible for the beautiful decorations.

Mrs. Harold Grant was convener of the tea arrangements, assisted by a committee comprising Mrs. D. C. Sabiston, Mrs. D. Scott, Miss E. O'Brien and Mrs. E. Bean, while others helping to serve were Mrs. C. Sabiston, Mrs. H. Sabiston, Mrs. A. Sabiston, Miss K. Erb, Mrs. J. A. Levy, Miss Betty Scott, Miss Cicely Vincent and Mrs. D. Stewart.

Gorge and Erskine W.M.S.

The Gorge and Erskine W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church held its monthly meeting at the Erskine Church recently, and was opened with a prayer-poem read by the president, Mrs. Sanders. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Poulson.

Mrs. L. Ballantyne sang a Thanksgiving hymn. The next meeting of the W.M.S. will be held at the Gorge Church in conjunction with St. Paul's Auxiliary. Miss Ellen Douglas, missionary on furlough, will be the speaker. Mrs. E. McQueen gave a descriptive talk on Japan. Mrs. Acheson closed the meeting with prayer.

Junior C.W.I.

The monthly meeting of the Junior C.W.I. was held on October 13 at the home of Miss Mona Doyle. Miss Clay and Miss Scanlan paid a visit and spoke on the formation of a study club for the juniors. A rummage sale will be held tomorrow at the parish hall. Anyone having articles for it is asked to send them to the parish hall this afternoon.

The juniors' dance will be held on October 21 at the K. of C. Hall. Tickets may be obtained from the members. The attendance prize was won by E. MacDonald. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Fairfield W.M.S.

The autumn thanksgiving meeting of the Fairfield United Church W.M.S. will be held today at 3 p.m. in the schoolroom. Mrs. W. G. Wilson will be the guest speaker, and some of the ladies of the Presbyterian will present a pageant. Women from other churches will be cordially welcomed.

Presbyterian Rally

The annual Fall rally of the Victoria Presbyterian of the Presbyterian W.M.S. will be held in St. Andrew's Church on Monday, October 19, at 3 p.m. Rev. Dr. Mal-

Guide Movement Has High Ideals

Sunday, October 18, is Church Day in the National Week of the Canadian Girl Guides. All across Canada the Guides on this day will attend church services of their own denomination, as will be arranged for them locally.

The Girl Guide movement is essentially a religious one in the largest sense of the word. It aims to inculcate in the girls a sense of their responsibility to their God and to their fellow men. The first promise a girl makes when she is enrolled as a Guide is "On my honor, I promise to do my best to do my duty to God."

TODAY'S RECIPE

BANANA PUFFS—Three well-beaten eggs, 1-4 cup milk, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 3 bananas. Method: Make a batter of eggs, milk, sugar, flour and baking powder. Stir in the thinly-sliced bananas. Half-fill buttered custard cups and bake one hour in a moderate oven. Serve with a cream or lemon sauce.—Prudence.

turns that are done by Guides in "helping others at all times," the second promise made, is too well known for comment.

The laws that a Guide promises to keep include those of honor, loyalty, helpfulness, friendliness, courtesy, kindness, obedience, cheerfulness, thrift and purity.

LINKED WITH CHURCH WORK—Although the Girl Guide movement aims to provide Guide-training for all girls in a community, of whatever race or creed, it also provides that churches may have attached companies consisting of girls who are members of their respective congregations. In this way the Guide movement is linked closely with the work of the church and the Sunday school, as such Guide companies are usually formed by the Sunday school group and become the regular midweek channel for the service activities of the group.

Service is the keynote of the movement. All teaching given a girl is not for her own improvement only, but in order that she may pass it on and by so doing perfect herself a helpful citizen. Character building by means of interesting and useful activities is the idea behind all that is done. Much of the training is along home-making lines. Much is planned to employ the leisure time profitably.

ENGAGEMENTS

SCOTT-GRAY

The engagement is announced of Nellie, daughter of Mr. John P. Gray and the late Mrs. Gray, to Mr. William James Scott, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Scott. The marriage will take place quietly in the near future.

Necklines continue high in front for most daytime dresses, but for evening low-cut lines are newer, and dresses often have backs, which, considering the backless state of our forms for some seasons, is quite an innovation.

Social and Personal

Leave for Vancouver

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber left Vancouver to attend the folk song and dance festival at Hotel Vancouver. They expect to return to Victoria on Monday.

ONWEGO

At the weekly meeting of the Onwego Y.P.S. of Wilkinson Road Church, held on Tuesday evening, the election of officers took place as follows: President, Miss Beryl Whitehead; vice-president, Miss Helen Ritz; secretary, Miss Jessie Ritz; treasurer, Miss Myra Hodgson. Following the business, the evening was spent in games and contests under the supervision of Jessie Ritz, Myra Hodgson and Jack Allan. Winners in the contests were Gertrude Boorman and Helen Ritz. Refreshments were served by the committee. The meetings will be held every Tuesday evening throughout the winter months.

BAPTIST

Amid re-echoed pledges of renewed fidelity to the Christian cause, the Fall convocation of the Baptist Young People's Union of Vancouver Island was drawn to a successful conclusion on Saturday. The gathering was held in the First Baptist Church, Victoria. Following earlier discussion groups and a well-attended banquet, the many delegates had the pleasure of receiving as guest speaker, Mr. Percy Wills, of the Shantymen's Christian Association. Mr. Wills' talk on "Faith" showed the urgent necessity for more active and progressive faith within the confines of the Christian church. Truly practical, the suggestions found attentive ears. On Sunday in the Douglas Street Baptist Church, a combined Young People's service was held for those delegates who were in the city. Mr. Walter E. Wain, president of the Victoria Baptist Young People's Association, was the speaker.

DOUGLAS STREET BAPTIST

The Young People's Society of Douglas Street Baptist Church held its weekly meeting on Tuesday. Rev. P. W. McKinnon presided and gave an interesting talk on the "Great Pyramid," with illustrated slides presented by Mr. Pickard. A vote of thanks was extended to him for his kindness. Next Tuesday the group will have a "Newspaper" contest. Henry Robinson, the president, will be chairman for the evening. All young people are cordially invited to attend these gatherings of praise and fellowship.

ST. MARY'S

St. Mary's A.Y.P.A. held its regular meeting in the hall, Yale Street, on Wednesday at 8 p.m. Games and guessing contests were enjoyed. Next week Rev. Canon Nunn will address the group.

ST. JOHN'S

All members of St. John's A.Y.P.A. cast in the play are asked to be at St. John's Church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Important matters are to be discussed.

CATHEDRAL

At the last meeting of the Cathedral Young People's Society, Mr. Leonard Dixon in the chair, a discussion was held regarding the chrysanthemum tea, to be held shortly by the branch. Miss Rita Milligan, convener of the event, discussed plans with the members. In an effort to bring the right spirit to the new members, Rev. E. O. Robotham gave an address explaining the principles of the A.Y.P.A. work. The branch was pleased to welcome these visitors distinguished in A.Y.P.A. activities. Rev. H. Priest, of the O.B.R.E., Mr. Ben Drew, secretary of the Columbia Club, Misses and Mrs. Norman Southcott, recently elected president of the A.Y.P.A. British Columbia Provincial Council, all of whom spoke briefly. Next Wednesday evening at the Memorial Hall, Mr. Hugh Savage, M.P., will speak to the Cathedral branch on the subject of "Reforestation," which will undoubtedly be very interesting. A special invitation is extended to all persons interested, and a large attendance of members is expected.

The woman with the Monday morning face stood at the side door of the suburban villa and gazed unwisely at the tramp.

"I suppose it was drink brought you to this," said she grimly.

"No, lady," was the reply. "It was through backing a horse."

"Gambling," she interrupted. "If anything worse were than strong drink, and I simply refuse."

"Lady," said the man, "it was through backing a horse and cart into a plate glass window I lost my job."

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

SOOKE

Under the auspices of Sooke and North Sooke Institute, a military five hundred card party was held in the Community Hall on Wednesday evening, when nine tables were in progress. Mr. Robert Ackerman won the tenbid. The first honors were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. E. Arden, Mrs. G. A. Ackerman and Mrs. A. Sullivan, while Mrs. C. A. Hoegsen, Mrs. K. Cairns, Mr. Lau-Bettie and Mr. H. P. J. were awarded the consolation. Conveyers who served refreshments were Mrs. K. Grayson, Mrs. J. P. Noury, Mrs. H. Black and Mrs. G. A. Ackerman.

LANGFORD

The first card party of the season sponsored by the Langford Institute was held recently. Two tables of contract and four of auction were in play. The winners were: Contract, first, Mr. D. W. Spence and consolation, Miss L. M. Savory; auction, first, Mrs. Jack Taylor and Mrs. W. Hamilton; consolation, Mrs. E. D. Cove and Mr. J. Taylor. Prizes were donated by Mrs. D. B. Bullen and Mrs. R. J. Smith. The next card party will be on Wednesday, October 21, and the series will be continued on the third Wednesday of every month.

Workroom Visited by Mrs. Hamber

For the first time since she became chataine at Government House, Mrs. E. W. Hamber yesterday afternoon made her much-looked-forward-to visit to the Women's Workroom, Cook Street.

Accompanied by her secretary, Mrs. Rice, and by A. M. D. Fairbairn, Mrs. Hamber was welcomed by the workroom president, Mrs. L. A. Genge, and the following other members of the committee: Mrs. J. W. Gibson, Mrs. Alex. Gillespie, Miss Ogilvie and Mrs. Charles Swayne, assisted by Mrs. Chapin, workroom manager, and Miss Thorne, supervisor.

TOUR OF INSPECTION

She immediately proceeded on a tour of inspection, and, as on similar occasions, exhibited the greatest interest as she moved from one worker to another, examining and admiring the needlecraft, and encouraging the needlewomen by her generous praise.

One of the first workers to whom she spoke was Mrs. Barnard, who is the crocheted rag expert. This craft interested her greatly. In turn, she spoke to some of the machine-women, a skillful button-hole finisher, two or three of the knitters, some of the needlewomen engaged in the stitching of lace on fine cambric handkerchiefs, and the women who make the beautiful braided rugs for which the workroom is becoming noted.

"LAVENDER NOOK"

At the "lavender nook," where one woman is constantly engaged at a project, time in filling lavender sachets, Mrs. Hamber expressed surprise when informed that orders for these sachets are received from as far away as Montreal and Quebec, one of these being for 100. Tiny lavender "hats" were among the other attractive articles shown here. One of the novelties which the workroom just yesterday began to manufacture was noticed. This is a sock for golf clubs, knitted in gay colors, with matching golf mitts. Woolen garments for babies, gaiters, aprons, work bags, patchwork quilts, Afghanis and numerous other articles were seen in turn, with a kindly word for each of the needlewomen.

Before leaving, Mrs. Hamber made a generous donation to the workroom, at the same time expressing astonishment and pleasure at the amount of work turned out.

Friends Make Presentation

Rev. Dr. William E. Daly and Mrs. Daly were "at home" to their friends on Tuesday afternoon at their home on Albion Street, when teachers and friends of the Eskine Sunday School called to wish them health and happiness on their golden wedding day.

Mr. Cleav presented Dr. and Mrs. Daly with a handsome standard lamp with the good wishes of their friends, and in replying, Dr. Daly sincerely thanked the visitors for their gifts and expressed his pleasure in being recognized with such an enthusiastic band of teachers. Regret was expressed at the unavoidable absence from the gathering of Mr. Herbert Bracken, the popular superintendent of the Sunday school. Tea was served during the afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Daly were married in Westmesth, Leinster, Ireland, in October, 1861. In 1905 they came out to Calgary, where Dr. Daly joined the Methodist ministry, after which he occupied the pulpit at Westmesth for two years. Following this he joined the Presbyterian Church. For the last ten years they have been residents of Royal Oak and Victoria.

Of the four children of the marriage, there is one son and one daughter living. Mr. Vernon W. Daly and Mrs. Anne, both of Seattle.

Traditional Folk Songs Specialty Of Dutch Soloist

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15.—Arriving from the Hague by way of Toronto and now at Hotel Vancouver where she is singing at the folk song and dance festival, a colorful four-day cavalcade of the music and handicrafts of more than seventy nations, Correlia Van Gennep, "the lady from Holland" laughingly admits she is not a "Dutch" case.

Five feet, eyes blue-grey as her own Zeider Zee, with a slight, most attractive accent but in fluent English, she discusses the spiritual, as well as the cultural value of folk songs. Franz Hals, Rembrandt, contrapuntists of the fifteenth century as applied to Dutch music and the folk-songs of Dutch, which she called "Prinsche dracht," and wears when singing her traditional songs of the Netherlands, and why she came to Canada.

Three years ago in Italy she met the Mohawk Indian, Oake-non-ton, when she was singing in a Mohawk song. Intrigued by his yarns she decided to come to Eastern Canada for three months. "She has been there ever since," she solemnly says, "I am now in Canada, but this is her first visit to Canada's West."

Pictorial artist a student at the Amsterdam Art Gallery, she specializes in Inuitian cuts as the nearest feasible approach to ancient woodcuts, has appeared in public since she was eight years old in drama and afterwards in opera. But her chief love is the song of ancient times. Her princess is evidently hereditary, for her neeza costume belongs to her grandmother. Some of her costumes are three and four hundred years old.

SAYS CHOCOLATES IN GREATER DEMAND AS CONDITIONS BETTER

Indicative of better times, luxuries in the form of candies and chocolates were in greater demand, reported Ernest J. Roberts, Montreal, vice-president in charge of sales for the Lowney Chocolate Company, Ltd., and T. E. Johnson, Vancouver, coast representative, on their arrival at the Empress Hotel, last night.

In the various company plants across Canada, manufacturing staffs were working several days a week to fill orders up to Christmas, they explained.

The petticoat fashion, which started this Spring, is expected to recede even more strongly this Fall. Petticoats of silk, mull and silk tulle are being shown also black tulle is being employed to a great extent.

Penmans have anticipated the needs of the Canadian family for knitted products which ensure comfort, style and satisfactory wearing qualities. It is worthwhile to look for Penmans label.

A. J. Watson Presents Rotary Club With Cheque for Tintania's Palace Showing

A cheque for $1,800, the proceeds from the showing of Tintania's Palace here, was presented to President Frank I. Doherty, of the Rotary Club, by A. J. Watson, manager of the local Hudson's Bay Company's store, yesterday at the club luncheon in the Empress Hotel.

The showing of the palace in Victoria was arranged through the co-operation of the departmental store and the club, with the proceeds being turned over to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

In a neatly phrased address, Mr. Watson extended thanks to the Rotary Club for its assistance in presenting the palace. He declared no other organization had shown the same interest in any previous similar matter than the Rotarians in the offering of the palace exhibition in Victoria. He also tendered his thanks to the Girl Guides, the Solarium committee and ladies of various organizations for assisting in making the exhibition a success.

Mr. Watson paid high tribute to The Colonist and The Times, stating no other city could grant the palace more publicity than the display here.

Mr. Doherty extended thanks to Mr. Watson and his colleagues, J. S. Horne, C. W. Page and John Ketter. The display would not have been possible without the assistance of the store, Mr. Doherty stated.

TEMPLE HOLDS ANNUAL DINNER

Victoria Institution in Better Financial Position, Head of Board States

A successful banquet was held by members of the Victoria City Temple, Wednesday night, and more than 125 persons sat down to the tables, arranged and served by members of the Women's Auxiliary. A feature of the event was the attendance of fifteen clergymen and laymen, who, at one time and another, had been pulpits during the present interregnum of pastors.

G. A. Hebbden, president of the board of management, presided, and in the course of his remarks he took the visiting clergy into his confidence and reported that 42 per cent of the $18,000 owing in the early part of 1934, had been paid off. He said that this had been made possible by a complete reorganization of the financial setup of the organization and by the balancing of budgets. Some assets had been sacrificed to attain this position, but the result was that the church was in a better position financially today than it had ever been before, and the future was certainly brighter. However, with 58 per cent still to pay, there was plenty to do, he said. On behalf of his colleagues he expressed appreciation of the kindly interest and practical assistance given by the clergy of several denominations. The loyalty of the members of the organization was also praised.

REPLY FROM MINISTERS

Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., speaking for the visiting ministers, expressed pleasure in noting the progress that had been made and complimented the City Temple on the courage and effort that had been exerted toward the objective set. He said that there were several aspects of the work that were highly commendable.

George Holt, immediate past president, was complimented by the chairman on the completion of the building under his direction by voluntary labor, of the ramp which now provides access to the main platform from the floor below, and also on the splendid assistance he had given to the church over many years.

A programme, including the following items, preceded an auction sale of harvest fruits and vegetables: Recitations, Miss Barbara Oakley; vocal solos, Miss Phyllis Deaville, accompanied by Mrs. Grace Deaville; accordion solos and community song accompaniments, Mrs. Evelyn Holt; baritone solos, James McVie, accompanied by Miss Dorothy McVie, and conjuring tricks by Andrew Swallow. Nelson Goodwin acted as auctioneer, assisted by Ralph Holt, Ralph Snider, Al Sebastian and Robert Oseleton. Mrs. A. Ordano arranged the programme.

SPECIAL GUESTS

Special guests attending were Rev. F. W. and Mrs. Anderson, F. W. Davey, Professor and Mrs. E. S. Parr, G. E. Orlitz, Mrs. M. Hammond, Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Horton, Rev. S. Howard, Rev. W. P. Retreat Before Onslaught of Police Disorders ensued in London's East End on October 4, when Sir Oswald Mosley and 5,000 of his Fascist followers attempted to parade through London's East End. Police compelled Mosley to halt his procession, but before Mosley had occurred such as that pictured. In this scene, which was photographed and rushed to New York via the air liner Hindenburg, anti-Fascist demonstrators are retreating from a barricade in the vicinity of Mark Lane, the point where the Fascists met to begin their march.

Sixteen war veterans have been chosen on the sergeant-at-arms staff for the coming session to open October 27. It was announced yesterday at Mr. Speaker's chambers. Sessional attendants and pages were listed as follows:

Attendants—D. Scott, Alfred Bennett, J. G. Mackenzie, M. C. McPhail, R. O. Keane, P. Foreman, G. Barker, John Wallace, Edward Youngs, W. J. Scott, V. Bigwood, William McManus, G. Read, A. P. McConnell, G. Wilkinson, D. R. Banfield, D. Porteous, Edward Johnson and B. Lilley.

Pages—E. Steele, D. Stuart, R. McCormick, T. Graham, D. Evans, J. Muldrew, R. Hayes, G. Wilmut, G. Olding, L. Manning, J. McLaren, T. Burnett and G. Creighton.

Sessional photographers will be announced later.

Japanese Young People Baptized

At St. Mark's Church, Salt Spring Island, on October 12 (St. Wulfrid's Day), the Sacrament of Holy Baptism was administered to fifteen members of the Japanese young people's class, who have been under instruction for the last two-and-a-half years.

The service was conducted by the vicar of the parish, Rev. C. H. Poplham, who was assisted by Rev. G. Nakayama, of the Holy Cross Mission in Vancouver and who gave a helpful address to the candidates. After the service, the Japanese and some other members of the congregation assembled at the vicarage and a social hour was spent, during which short addresses were given by Miss Hirano (Japanese missionary in Vancouver) and Mr. Shegan. Both of whom had just returned from attending the A.Y.P.A. conference at Nanaimo.

The names of those baptized were: Violet Ito, Isabel Nakamura, Dixie Nakamura, Mary Mikado, Martha Mikado, Helen Ito, Kenneth Ito, James Okano, Gordon Nakamura, Mickle Ito, William Nakamura, Philip Murakami, Peter Murakami, Mark Mikado and Luke Murakami.

WELFARE EXPERT TO SPEAK HERE

Miss Charlotte Whitton Will Address Child and Family Welfare Conference

Miss Charlotte Whitton, C.B.E., executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council, will arrive in Victoria in time to take part in the conference on child and family welfare.

MISS CHARLOTTE WHITTON, C.B.E.

The conference will be held under the joint auspices of the newly-formed Council of Social Agencies of Victoria and the Canadian Welfare Council, and is one of a series of regional conferences being held throughout Canada during the fall months. November 3 and 4 were the dates decided upon for the meetings in Victoria.

Miss Whitton, who is well known in Victoria, has been executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council since 1926, with headquarters in Ottawa. The Council was originally a clearing house for child welfare work in Canada, but subsequently broadened its scope to include other branches of welfare service. As executive director, Miss Whitton has rendered valuable consultative and advisory services to many communities in Canada on problems connected with community welfare.

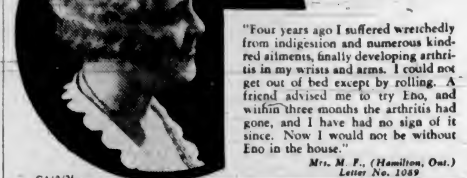

ASSESSOR TO COMMISSION

For a number of years Miss Whitton served as an assessor to the League of Nations Commission on the Protection and Welfare of Children and Young People, and in 1936 was appointed Canadian Government delegate to that commission. Actively associated with the I.O.D.E., as well as many other organizations in Canada, Miss Whitton is a member of the board of trustees of Queen's University, a member of the National Executive Council for Social Service of the Church of England in Canada, a member of the advisory council on the Immigration of Women to Canada, and of the Dominion Government Employment Service Council of Canada.

SECURED HIS EVIDENCE

PROSSER, Wash., Oct. 15 (AP)—Peter Jacquot made sure of his evidence when a sedan crashed through a wall and into the living room of his home. He chained the rear wheel so the driver, Victor Mehrer, nineteen, couldn't move it. Mehrer was fined $25 in justice court for reckless driving.

WRETCHED INDIGESTION

"Four years ago I suffered wretchedly from indigestion and numerous kindred ailments, finally developing arthritis in my wrists and arms. I could not get out of bed except by rolling. A friend advised me to try Eno, and within three months the arthritis had gone, and I have had no sign of it since. Now I would not be without Eno in the house."

Little Stories for Bedtime

Mr. and Mrs. Bully Go House Hunting
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Bully the English Sparrow and Mrs. Bully made a very good breakfast in Farmer Brown's henyard. The little people of the Old Orchard watched them at a distance and really didn't know what to make of them.

"Did you ever in all your life see such bold, impudent things?" exclaimed Goldie the Oriole. "Why, they actually take the food from right under the noses of those stupid chickens. If they try anything like that here in the Old Orchard there is going to be trouble. Here they come now. I wonder what they intend to do."

It was quite clear that Mrs. Bully was feeling better natured now that she had had a good breakfast. That's the way with some people. If you want them good-natured all one she couldn't find any real fault with and Bully rather hoped that she would decide to take this. But she didn't. When he asked her why, she answered, "Oh, because." And that was all he could get from her. So he sighed and made up his mind that she didn't have any real reason for not taking that house. It was just a notion that she didn't want to live there, that was all.

"Why they actually take the food from under the noses of those stupid chickens"

"Are these all the houses that there are?" she asked at last in a fretful tone of voice.

"All the empty ones," replied Bully. "There are some very nice ones which are occupied. Would you like to look at those, my dear?"

"Certainly. Of course. You didn't suppose I would decide on a house until I had seen all of them, did you?" snapped Mrs. Bully. "If I like one of those, whoever is living there will simply have to move out, that's all."

"So once more Bully led the way through the Old Orchard. He stopped first at the home of Winsome Bluebird. It just happened that no one was at home. Mrs.

Bully not only looked in, but she went in. She examined it just as thoroughly as she had the empty houses and acted quite as if she had a perfect right there.

"It's better than any of the others I have seen, and if we can't find anything else I think it will do," she announced. Little Chippy Sparrow, who happened to overhear her, fairly gasped.

"There's the home of Drummer the Woodpecker over there," said Bully. "It looks very good from the outside, but I haven't had a chance to see the inside. I understand that it is new this year."

"We'll go look at it now," replied Mrs. Bully in a very decided tone, and led the way.

But just before they reached Drummer's house Drummer himself appeared in the doorway. Mrs. Bully took one look at Drummer's stout bill and then quite suddenly changed her mind. "Perhaps we better wait until there is no one at home," said she.

Bully's face brightened. "A very good idea, I think, my dear," he answered. "Now suppose we look at the house of Skimmer the Swallow."

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 8 to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 9 to 11 a.m. from 5 to 7 p.m. and from 10 p.m. until midnight.

It may be difficult to understand many things this day unless you concentrate enough to grasp their underlying cause and affect. Some people are likely to assume a superior attitude so as to escape a task or to keep from being called upon to do a favor.

Any friendly overture deserves a display of appreciation, for it will be accepted by a kindly motive. Inactivity or any feeling of lethargy must not be permitted to get the best of you, or to be the cause of your neglecting any duties, for inaction will draw trouble like a magnet this day. Imprudence regarding any form of sanitation is apt to be one of the day's greatest dangers, particularly in places patronized by the public. Married and engaged couples, as well as those whose matrimonial ambitions seem to be progressing nicely, may find pertness will be construed as rudeness, especially if it is resorted to in an attempt to be funny.

If a woman and October 16 is your birthday, you are probably too easily sold on any new idea, fad or hobby. Control any inclination to be extremely emotional. Your intellectual propensities can be profitably developed, and perhaps will be responsible for your meeting many worthwhile people. You might be too readily affected by superstitions, or the foolish prognostications of irresponsible soothsayers. You are kind, magnanimous and very lovable. You ought to be a fine conversationalist and very popular. In all likelihood you will soon discover you are a very lucky person. If this fact has not already been revealed to you as a poet, fiction writer, secretary, business woman, actress, or dietitian, your efforts should be well rewarded. You will possibly find your greatest happiness in a home of your own with a devoted husband and loving children.

The child born on October 16 generally, by the time it reaches its teens, gives evidence of possessing a brilliant intellect, with creative powers that may stamp it as a genius in some particular vocation for which it has a strong leaning.

If a man and October 16 is your natal day, you have a fertile mind, great executive ability and a personality that will attract people to you. As a jurist, politician, editor, author, educator, lecturer, actor or salesman you can make a great success of your life with very little effort.

The woman who frequently wears a smock around the house will be intrigued with the new China print crash smock in mandarin coat silhouette, bound in black satin.

WESTS WILL CLASH WITH CITY IN IMPORTANT MATCH

Greenshirts and Second Place XI Battle Tomorrow

Will Field Strong Line-Up for First Division Football Engagement at Royal Athletic Park—Both Clubs Still Unbeaten—Esquimalt Will Face Saanich Thistles at Bullen Park

Two unbeaten soccer machines, Victoria West, the leaders, and Victoria City, second place occupants, will march on the playing pitch at the Royal Athletic Park, Saturday afternoon at 2:45, to battle it out for the undisputed leadership of the first division of the "Victoria and District Football League." J. C. "Goatly" Dowds will handle the whistle. Out at Bullen Park, Esquimalt will entertain Saanich Thistles at the same hour, with Al McKinnon in charge. Besides counting as a league fixture the match will be for the Brundage Cup, a trophy played for annually between the Dockers and the Thistles.

Ardent soccer fans will head for the enclosure to watch the greenshirts and City fight it out. To date the Wests have scored two consecutive victories, while the City have triumphed once and have a draw to their credit. Victory for the Wests will increase their lead to three full points, while a reverse will put the City in the premier berth. Haval managers announced their line-ups yesterday and both sides will be at full strength, which is a good guarantee that a keenly fought encounter will be witnessed.

WESTS IMPRESSIVE

Victoria West have looked impressive in both their decisions, while the City showed mid-season form in their opening engagement against Esquimalt but failed to function up to expectations in the match against the Thistles and had to be content with a scoreless draw. However, with George Payne back at inside left the City's line of attack should click, and if it does it should continually worry the greenshirts' defense. Another thing, the Wests will find the fullback combination of Roper and Moody, two tall and hard-kicking players, a tough problem throughout the ninety minutes.

Esquimalt have switched their line-up with hopes of producing a winning combination. Eddie De Costa has been shifted to the right wing and Joe Watt to the inside berth. Earle Barnswell will work at the pivot spot, and a newcomer, Jim Robinson, will be tried out at right half. The Thistles have their strongest team ready for action and will be slightly favored to lift the trophy and thus gain their first win of the season.

THE LINE-UPS

Line-ups follow:
Esquimalt—L. De Costa, Griffin, Marsh, Robinson, Restall, McBay, E. De Costa, Joe Watt, E. Barnswell, B. Barnswell and Browne. Substitutes: Laird and Young.
Saanich Thistles—Chalmers, Steyer, Crowe, Harper, R. Williams, Leggett, Speller, E. Williams, Elliott, S. Saxe, K. Gent, Alexander and Miles.

Victoria City—Rowe, Moody, Roper, Cliff Robbins, Glen Robbins, Reside, Hodson, Young, Brandow, G. Payne, Peers, Garland, Robbins, Pearce and Whitaker. Players are asked to be at the park at 2:15.
The V.A.C. line-up for their juvenile match with St. Louis College at the Athletic Park in the morning, will be as follows: Thomas, Tonkin, Smith, Atherton, Lowe, McAllister, Shubrooke, Wood, Holding, Booth, Travis, Bishop and Knowles. Players are asked to be at the park at 10:15.

Victoria West will have the following in uniform: Restall, Sweeney, B. Bell, Lorandini, Barnes, H. Sage, O. Bell, A. Stewart, Robinson, R. O'Neil, Morgan, G. Barnes and J. O'Neil.

MOOSE ATTACKS CAR

UPPER RAWDON N.S. Oct. 15.—Wentworth Weir and his hunting companion, A. D. McPhee, were motoring into a hunting camp when a big moose popped out of the brush, put one foot through the car window and remained helpless. McPhee pushed back the hood and the moose lumbered off.

Strikeout King at School

Biggest baseball auction of all time will be thrown open to bidders if boy-pitcher of Cleveland Indians, a free agent, River clubs over Cleveland forfeited their right to Feller by signing him direct from the sandlots in violation of league rules. Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees have almost unlimited sums ready to lay on the line if Feller can be signed to a contract. Meanwhile, the seventeen-year-old strikeout king is back in Van Meter, Ia., to finish his high schooling. The mayor and 10,000 persons acclaimed him first citizen of the town when he reached home.

OAK BAY IN CUP VICTORY

Defeats Colwood Women in Second Half of Sayward Cup Match at Oak Bay

Paced by Mrs. V. S. Godfrey, three times club champion, women golfers representing the Victoria Golf Club came through with flying colors in the second half of the Sayward Cup competition yesterday afternoon at the Oak Bay links and defeated Royal Colwood Club by a 10 to 4 score to lift the silverware. In the first half of the match the teams battled to a deadlock, the final count being seven and a half all, so Oak Bay takes the round, 18 to 12.

Results, with the Colwood players first mentioned, follow:
Mrs. Bennett 0, Mrs. V. S. Godfrey 1.
Miss Peggy Hodgson 1, Mrs. Philbrick 1.

Lawn Bowling

The annual prize-giving social of the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club, held in Hampton Hall on Wednesday evening, was well attended by the members and their friends.

In opening the proceedings, President A. W. Stewart, in a few well-chosen words, congratulated the various winners and runners-up in the various competitions, and made particular mention of the splendid showing made by Burnside members in several of the Greater Victoria open events sponsored by sister clubs, among which this club had secured the following trophies: Empire Day Cup mixed triples (Burnside), Victoria West's Yarrow Trophy, men's doubles (Canadian Pacific), Ansonbe Cup mixed doubles (Lake Hill), and the coveted Cameron Cup, emblematic of the Greater Victoria men's rink championship.

The following were the prize winners of club competitions:

Trustees' Trophy, club singles, presented by John Paterson—1, E. Myrda; 2, W. Davidson.

Lawrie Trophy, club doubles, presented by J. W. Mercer—1, J. Hancock and W. Davidson; 2, E. Meadows and A. W. Stewart.

Renfrew Cup, handicap singles, presented by S. C. Hawkins—1, W. Davidson; 2, F. Harman.

Goodwin Cup, challenge doubles, presented by W. Davidson—1, F. Holmes and E. Myers.

Chambers' Champion of Champions singles—O. Vallance.

Saturday Rinks—1, E. Eastham; 2, A. A. Pass; 3, G. Little; 4, T. Eastham.

Craigflower Cup, Labor Day mixed triples—1, Mrs. Little, H. Holmes and E. Eastham; 2, Mrs. Playfair, J. P. Hibben and T. Waterworth.

Owing to a slight indisposition, Mr. DeWolf, local manager of Mallick's Ltd., was unable to be present to present the cup donated by his firm for open competition in Victoria for teams composed of three men and this was presented by the president to Messrs. G. O'Neil, S. Clarke and S. Barr, of the Canadian Pacific Club, the runners-up being S. Pate, W. J. MacAllen and R. H. Harrison, of the Victoria Club.

WOMEN'S WINNERS
Following the presentation of the men's prizes, Mrs. A. W. Stewart presented the prizes to the various winners of the Women's Club as follows:

Singles Championship—1, Mrs. Mowat; 2, Mrs. Eastham.
Doubles Championship—1, Mrs. Eastham and Mrs. Cook; 2, Mrs. W. Davidson and Mrs. Little.

Liberal Cup, challenge doubles—1, Mrs. Mowat and Mrs. Eastham.
Saturday Rinks—1, Mrs. Mowat; 2, Mrs. Little; 3, Mrs. Cook; 4, Mrs. P. Holmes.

At the conclusion of the prize-giving Mrs. E. Bonham entertained the guests with two charming recitations, rendered with fine technique, which were greatly appreciated by her audience. A social evening, which included dancing and "sing" then occupied the remainder of the evening. At cards, Mrs. Johnston won the first prize and J. Hancock won the gentlemen's first. The Burnside Ladies' Club was given a very hearty vote of thanks for the "sing" which they lavishly served refreshments, thus bringing an enjoyable evening to a fitting climax.

HOOP GAMES SET TOMORROW NIGHT

Three fixtures are booked in the Sunday School Basketball League tomorrow evening at the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium. In the opener, St. Aidan meets St. Albans in a junior tussle, commencing at 7 o'clock. St. Louis College and the Commercial will step on the court for the second tussle in the intermediate "B" section, while the Crescents will try conclusions with Canadian Scottish in the final game.

HEAVYWEIGHT MAT CARD IS SET TONIGHT

All-Star Programme Will Be Presented at Tillicum Gymnasium

RANDOR SZABO

Wrestling's greatest attraction, handsome Randor Szabo, Hungarian grappler and one of the leading contenders for the heavyweight crown, will make his first Victoria appearance this evening at the Tillicum gymnasium. Booked for the main event of Promoter Fred Richardson's all-star heavyweight mat programme, Szabo will oppose Harry Kent, clever Portlander, in the eight ten-minute bout.

Kent gained recognition as an opponent for the colorful Hungarian last week, when he defeated Pat Prayle, clever Nebraskan, after a whirlwind match, but it was only yesterday that the local matchmaker would be able to fill the proposed engagement here tonight. Kent will replace Leo Numa, Anderson, who grappled Szabo last night at Vancouver.

Victoria's wrestling fans are showing considerable interest in the visit here of Randor Szabo, and tickets for the show are moving faster than for any previous event this winter. Promoter Fred Richardson announced yesterday that present indications point to a bumper crowd being on hand to greet Szabo.

Donald McIntyre, Scotian's heavyweight titleholder, Chief Thunderbird, Saanich Indian; Fred Carone, Italian squirmer, and Louie Newman, Victoria wrestler, are the other boys booked for the attractive programme.

The show will open at 8:45 o'clock, with two local boys appearing in the preliminary.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX MORRISON

A trip through Texas in August has brought to light some things that I think golfers in other parts of the country can profit by. One of them has to do with playing in extreme heat.

In El Paso I went out to play with my friend, Sheriff Chris Fox. The unusually bright sun prompted me to tell him that it might prove too much for me because I had spent most of the year indoors. He told me that he had a stunt that would keep me more or less comfortable during the round. He had me take half a teaspoon of plain table salt.

Eighteen difficult holes were played without any of the discomfort I had experienced on similar occasions. It seems that manufacturers have had employees take salt tablets when they were in danger of prostration from extreme heat. Of course this tip may not be good for all players so I urge you to consult your physician before trying it.

Jane Dixon Says

MORE ADVICE FOR SANDRA—THIS TIME FROM A WOMAN WHO WAS WOODED BY FIVE MARRIED MEN

Proximity, the nearness of human beings to one another, may be a very dangerous influence.

Sandra wrote me that she had been living in the home with her mother and her stepfather, and that one day she and stepfather awoke to the fact that they were in love.

"Desperately in love," as Sandra put it.

What would she do?

Break her mother's heart by telling what had happened?

Mother loves her husband and is having the first real happiness in her mature life.

"Must we sacrifice our love on the altar of duty?" Sandra asked.

I advised Sandra to take distance. To get away from the proximity, the domestic scene, the familiarity of a home, and to test the love she believes is the major event of her life.

If, after a thorough test, Sandra and the man find life is empty without one another, they may do what they can to alter it.

So here is a letter for Sandra:

SHE NEEDS A RESPONSIBILITY

Dear Miss Dixon: Sex emotion may be diverted. I know. I believe I know as well as any woman in the world.

Sandra, the easiest way is to separate yourself from your temptation; the hardest thing is to adjust yourself to it.

What you need is a responsibility—something definite to do, something that depends upon your doing. Investigate, quietly, some vocation, an unusual one, so that you yourself as well as the gossip will know that you are trying, that you went to work, that you are not content to shrink from suspicion.

If you can't put yourself on the work trail, then be brave enough to tell the man how you feel. That this attraction of the two of you may be a fair of fancy. Tell him that the deception of your mother is causing you to lose respect for yourself and for him, and make him know that you are sincere in your statements.

Don't wait for him to take the stand, because he will not do it. A man can't help being attracted, in a physical way, to a nice-looking young woman, even if he is married to one. That is, unless he is a stone man.

Cultivate other young men friends. They may bore you to tears at first, but eventually you will find one who will be abundantly able to "dry those tears."

FIVE MARRIED MEN WOODED HER

Until you have made a severe test and have found that your love for your mother's husband and his for you is until death, never let your mother know what a lie the two of you are living.

Do something about it now, Sandra, before you let your moral down and find yourself wishing somehow that some kind Providence would transport your mother to the Beautiful Beyond.

I am thirty-seven. In the last ten years five men have avowed their love for me. All of them were married. I am not a vampire. It just happened to be my misfortune to attract these men. Only one of the five loved my soul more than my body. The others have gradually killed what love I had for them. I am still closely associated with them and their families, and carry on the pretence of firm friendship.

The prime years of my life have been wrecked by nervous digestion, caused in most part by emotional confusion and suppressed desire.

I've been a round peg in a square hole, seeking always to fit myself into my allotted space.

Now, the one man has compensated for the others. I see him seldom, but I know I'd rather have the unexpressed love for him than to have married one of the others, under stress, and lived unhappily ever after.

I'm convinced the true secret of happiness is having worthwhile work to do, whether it's in the home or elsewhere.—The Round Peg—

Answer: There is nothing I can add except to congratulate you, Round Peg. It is such a relief to find a young woman who is sufficient unto her own problem, and who can help me to help others. Good luck to you.

How It Started

By JEAN-NEWTON

LOYALTY

One of the world's best is also one of its briefest documents on loyalty. You will find it in Samuel I. 31: "Now the Philistines fought against Israel; and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and Saul and his armour-bearer could not, for he was sore afraid. Therefore, Saul took a sword and fell upon it. And when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise upon his sword, and died with him." Loyalty has always been a quality of rank and character. "When I forget my sovereign," swore Lord Thurlow, "may my God forget me."

In its very origin in this lofty strain plain to read: "We have the word from the Latin 'legalis' from lex, law. In its earliest usage, it connoted faithful, unswerving allegiance to the death in behalf of one's prince, king or God. In its secondary and frequently used sense, the significance of duty to one's sovereign has been translated to that of being true and steadfast to anyone to whom one owes fidelity, especially as between husband and wife, lovers, friends, members of a political party, adherents to causes or principles.

Another Rare Value for Men

SUITS

Of Wool Tweeds at $17.50

For Suits like these you would pay in the ordinary course of merchandising—a much higher price. However these were a special purchase—and so we pass them along at this low price.

The Suits are faultlessly tailored—in young men's bi-swing back styles or semi-conservative models. The tweeds are of good weight. Shown in neat patterns and semi-dark shades. Very dressy.
